WHAT MAKES OKAJE DIFFERENT?

GRADING SYSTEM

Our grading system starts at the mill's grading line. Once the log goes through the slicing process, we take into consideration the following:

- Structure of the crown
- Color - Discoloration
- Grain
- Width and length

And all of this shapes the grading system we have in Okaje.

Our objective is to find the perfect log that suits the client's taste, needs, specifications and the client's tolerance for certain defects such as flakes, knots and pins. Nonetheless, these natural flaws are widely acceptable in the market and it is what makes the wood and veneer beautiful.

Through the help of this system, our clients can minimize wastage and would be economically viable for his budget.
