

HOW TO USE ATTITUDE ADJUSTMENT™

Attitude Adjustment is designed to keep the animal from exhibiting "fight or flight" behavior. It contains NO SEDATIVES, NO BANNED SUBSTANCES AND WILL NOT TEST your animal out of your show.

FOR A BETTER SHOW RING PRESENCE:

Give the maximum dose for your specie 1 hour before they show.

The animal cannot be 'overdosed' The smallest dosage listed on the label for each specie is the amounts to give to weanlings.

IF YOU ARE CHASING BANNERS:

In this case, you need to keep your animal from stressing at all because when they stress, they regress, which is counter to winning a show.

- When you change their daily routine at home while getting ready for the show, give the maximum amount indicated for your specie. For example, during the event of clipping.
- Give that same dosage again before you load them onto the trailer to go to the show.
- When you arrive at the show and get your animal into their pen/stall, give that dosage again.
- For penned animals, when they stand, stretch, pee and do not lie back down, give that dose again.
- For animals in stalls, when the animal is paying attention to their surroundings, give them the same dosage as before.

A good rule of thumb is that you will administer Attitude Adjustment 3 to 4 times (give or take) per day while at the show. Make sure to give more Attitude Adjustment 1 hour before they enter the show ring.

FAQ'S

Can I use Attitude Adjustment everyday at home?

If you have a high-strung animal that is difficult to work with at home, you can use Attitude Adjustment at the maximum dose for every day use. However, it may be more beneficial to consider DED HED. This is the daily feed version of Attitude Adjustment, but is not a substitute for Attitude Adjustment on show day. Attitude Adjustment peaks high but does not last very long, whereas DED HED does not peak as high but lasts longer.

How long will the effects of Attitude Adjustment last?

There is no set length of time that Attitude Adjustment lasts, as it depends upon the animal's metabolism. The most tightly wound animal will have an improvement for a few hours (2 to 3), whereas others may exhibit an improvement for 6 to 7 hours. Administer as needed and know that Attitude Adjustment cannot be overdosed.

Will using Attitude Adjustment get me in trouble?

No. There are no banned substances in Attitude Adjustment. Attitude Adjustment will not test your animal out of any show in the USA.

Will using Attitude Adjustment slow my animal down or make them drowsy?

No. Attitude Adjustment does not interfere with the animal's neurological function.

Can Attitude Adjustment be used on breeding animals?

Yes. Attitude Adjustment is safe for all breeding animals; bred or open females as well as males.

What if my show doesn't allow pastes?

No problem! Find our recipe for Banner Bites at www.StockShowSecrets.com These need to be made at home, and you feed them to your animal at the show.
