“What’s the perfect—not too dressy, not too casual—dinner party look?”

—Grace Nunez, 23, New York City

When in doubt, make your shoe the statement piece.

“This roomy silhouette is understated and not overly sexy, but the drapery fabric and jeweled collar are unmistakably dressed up.”

—LYNETTE PONE
senior market editor

Jeweled-collar dress, $750, 3.1 Phillip Lim, 212-334-1160. “Gizelle” platforms, $295, Alice + Olivia by Stacey Bendet, aliceandolivia.com TEXT TO BUY: DPARTY1 AT 58259 Box clutch, $98, bananarepublic.com

The crazy sequined bag makes the whole look playful.

“I always choose a fun, bright color rather than black because it feels less serious and formal.”

—ELLE STRAUSS
senior fashion editor

Blouse, $55, Moon Collection, modcloth.com TEXT TO BUY: DPARTY2 AT 58259 Skirt, $495, Z Spoke by Zac Posen, 212-691-1926. “Casikade” sandals, $100, Nina, ninashoes.com. “Gaga” bag, $595, Jamin Puech, M Penner, Houston, 713-527-8200

The golden green shade is distinctly evening-ready.

“This dress is casual on the top, but all party on the bottom—the ultimate not-trying-too-hard combination.”

—RAY SIEGEL
associate online fashion editor

Dress, $495, threadsocial.com. Necklace, $60, carolee.com TEXT TO BUY: DPARTY3 AT 58259 “Cortez” sandals, $149, Nina, ninashoes.com

Animal print tones down the serious factor.

“The color and classic pleats feel safe and refined, but the chunky jeweled necklace and leopard-print clutch take the whole look in a cooler direction.”

—MEREDITH BOGONOVICH
art assistant
