PARTY PERFORMERS

WHERETHEYEAT

At Jo Allen in Covent Garden, where they've got a shot at impressing Trevor Nunn and Ian McKellen. Or The Wolseley, where it's anyone from Emily Blunt to Guy Ritchie they'll be sidling up to on the banquette.

WHERE THEY DRINK

Downstairs at the Phoenix Theatre on Charing Cross Road, but you have to be performing in a West End show to get in (the doormen have all the theatre programmes to cross-check against head shots). There's also Soho House, where they can prop up the bar with Eddie Redmayne.

WHAT THEY WEAR

Actors love accessories even more than the sound of their own voices. Freddie's personal favourite is a flat cap, which gives him the rakish air of Robert Redford in The Sting, and a Louis Vuitton cravat that makes him feel like a cockerel every time he plumps it up. The girls are a touch more glamorous, wearing Vivienne Westwood at a wrap party or floor-length Dior for an awards bash.

WHERE.THEY DANCE

The secluded Bungalow 8 where owner Amy Sacco, who has the memory of an elephant, works the tables, greeting the likes of Gemma Arterton and plays some Lady Gaga to get the crowd going. Keira Knightley goes to Raffles on the King's Road for the privacy.

PARTY GAMES

An actor never turns down a good improv challenge - singing Guys and Dolls in Chinese, for instance. But never suggest Charades as it's forbidden among thespians - they're not performing monkeys, luvvie.

TRUBE

Gemma Chan, 28, plays Billie Piper's dominatrix arch-rival in ITV's final series of Secret Diary of a Call Girl next year.

What was your best party ever? A weekend-long affair at a house near Cadiz. There was much mischief and paella. The police arrived at 4am.

Gwilym Lee, 27, is Michael Grandage's new golden boy and a drinking buddy of Jude Law. He is currently playing Edgar in Grandage's King Lear alongside Derek Jacobi, at the Donmar Warehouse.

Who would be your dream party guest? I'd really like to down a bottle of whisky with Dylan Thomas.

Andrew Scott, 33, plays Benedict Cumberbatch's psychotic nemesis Moriarty in the BBC's production of Sherlock.

What was your best party ever? My sixth birthday party. I'd still rather eat a Cadbury's mini-roll than a canapé.

Hannah Murray, 21, is studying English literature at Queen's College, Cambridge. She stars in the cyber-thriller Chatroom opposite Aaron Johnson, out later this month.

What is your favourite party drink? Whisky and lemonade. It's much less dangerous than wine.

Freddie Fox, 21, brother of Emilia, son of Edward and cousin of Laurence, graduated from Guildhall this year. He is appearing in Richard Eyre's A Flea In Her Ear, opposite Tom Hollander, at The Old Vic.

What was your best party ever? My 21st. I learned the tango especially for it.

Who would be your dream party guest? Vivienne Leigh. She would light up the room.

Jessica Raine, 27,

graduated from RADA in July 2008. Next year she is due to play the lead in the National's production of Clifford Odets' 1930s comedy Rocket to the Moon, set in New York.

What's was your best party ever? For

my birthday this year
I went to The Bethnal Green
Working Men's Club. I got
drunk on rum, got a fake sailor
tattoo and danced badly but with gusto. Then I lost my handbag and made everyone
look for it, only to find it was under my chair.

What's your party trick? I do an extraordinary impression of a baby seal's face. Don't ask. It's ugly.

With thanks to oldvictheatre.com; donmarwarehouse.com; national theatre.org.uk

PARTY PERFORMERS

WHERE THEY EAT

At Jo Allen in Covent Garden, where they've got a shot at impressing Trevor Nunn and Ian McKellen. Or The Wolseley, where it's anyone from Emily Blunt to Guy Ritchie they'll be sidling up to on the banquette.

WHERE THEY DRINK

Downstairs at the Phoenix Theatre on Charing Cross Road, but you have to be performing in a West End show to get in (the doormen have all the theatre programmes to cross-check against head shots). There's also Soho House, where they can propup the bar with Eddie Redmayne.

WHAT THEY WEAR

Actors love accessories even more than the sound of their own voices. Freddie's personal favourite is a flat cap, which gives him the rakish air of Robert Redford in The Sting, and a Louis Vuitton cravat that makes him feel like a cockerel every time he plumps it up. The girls are a touch more glamorous, wearing Vivienne Westwood at a wrap party or floor-length Dior for an awards bash.

WHERE THEY DANCE

The secluded Bungalow 8 where owner Amy Sacco, who has the memory of an elephant, works the tables, greeting the likes of Gemma Arterton and plays some Lady Gaga to get the crowd going. Keira Knightley goes to Raffles on the King's Road for the privacy.

PARTY GAMES

An actor never turns down a good improv challenge - singing Guys and Dolls in Chinese, for instance. But never suggest Charades as it's forbidden among the spians - they're not performing monkeys, luvvie.

TRIBE

Gemma Chan, 28, plays Billie Piper's dominatrix arch-rival in ITV's final series of Secret Diary of a Call Girl next year.

What was your best party ever? A weekend-long affair at a house near Cadiz. There was much mischief and paella. The police arrived at 4am.

Gwilym Lee, 27, is Michael Grandage's new golden boy and a drinking buddy of Jude Law. He is currently playing Edgar in Grandage's King Lear alongside Derek Jacobi, at the Donmar Warehouse.

Who would be your dream party guest? I'd really like to down a bottle of whisky with Dylan Thomas.

Andrew Scott, 33, plays Benedict Cumberbatch's psychotic nemesis Moriarty in the BBC's production of Sherlock.

What was your best party ever? My sixth birthday party. I'd still rather eat a Cadbury's mini-roll than a canapé.

Hannah Murray, 21, is studying English literature at Queen's College, Cambridge. She stars in the cyber-thriller Chatroom opposite Aaron Johnson, out later this month.

What is your favourite party drink? Whisky and lemonade. It's much less dangerous than wine.

Freddie Fox, 21, brother of Emilia, son of Edward and cousin of Laurence, graduated from Guildhall this year. He is appearing in Richard Eyre's A Flea In Her Ear, opposite Tom Hollander, at The Old Vic.

What was your best party ever? My 21st. I learned the tango especially for it.

Who would be your dream party guest? Vivienne Leigh. She would light up the room.

Jessica Raine, 27,

graduated from RADA in July 2008. Next year she is due to play the lead in the National's production of Clifford Odets' 1930s comedy Rocket to the Moon, set in New York.

What's was your best party ever? For

my birthday this year
Iwent to The Bethnal Green
Working Men's Club. I got
drunk on rum, got a fake sailor
tattoo and danced badly but
with gusto. Then I lost my
handbag and made everyone
look for it, only to find it was
under my chair.

What's your party trick? I do an extraordinary impression of a baby seal's face. Don't ask. It's ugly.

With thanks to oldvictheatre.com; donmarwarehouse.com; national theatre.org.uk

