GMO Statement

AAK USA produces vegetable oil products. The label declaration on the product data sheet indicates the source oils used for each product.

Many AAK products contain coconut, palm kernel, and/or palm oils. As of this point in time, to the best of our knowledge and belief, the fruit from which these oils are processed have not been enhanced through bioengineering techniques (genetically modified). It is important to note that we also produce products which may be sourced from genetically modified crops such as soybean, rapeseed, or cottonseed oil, including some vegetable oil blends. AAK makes no claims of non-GMO status, at this time.

If you require Identity Preserved or non-GMO certified products, please contact your AAK sales professional, and they will be happy to assist you.
