Learning Objective: Name the dinosaurs using pocket clues, class discussions, and available resources.

*I am one of the first known dinosaurs to fly.
Who am I? (Archaeopteryx)*

- Put on your paleontologist hat and name that dinosaur!
- Feature up to 20 dinosaurs from this set, along with their coordinating Fun Fact cards, in a main display and throughout the classroom.
- Write a clue about each dinosaur, like the one above, on a blank flash card and insert it in a pocket.
- Write "Who Am I?" on the labels and attach one to the outside of each pocket. When done, attach pockets on the main display with hook-and-loop tape or put in a big basket near the display.
- Divide your class into groups of two or more (based on class size), asking each group to remove one pocket from the display.
- Challenge groups to use the "Who Am I?" clues in the pockets, information discussed in class, and available resources to name and locate the correct dinosaur.
- A student from each group reads the clue, points to the correct dinosaur on the display or wall, and explains how the group arrived at that dinosaur.

- If any group names the wrong dinosaur, the class works together to find the right answer. Review all the fun facts you learned by playing Dinosaur Mighty Match in small groups.
