US Coast Guard Approved Out-of-Water Survival Craft Solutions for Vessels Operating in US Coastal Waters

USCG Recommends:

US Coast Guard strongly recommends that owners and operators of commercial fishing, passenger and offshore support vessels sailing in US coastal waters transition to out-of-water survival craft for the safety of passengers and personnel.

VIKING supplies a full range of safe and efficient out-of-water solutions to replace traditional in-water craft such as life floats and rigid buoyant apparatus.

Passenger Vessels

VIKING IBA

(Inflatable Buoyant Apparatus)

- Fully reversible
- Award winning boarding ramp for easy access (12-25 person sizes)
- Heavy duty, durable natural rubber
- Racks and ramps are available for larger sizes
- USCG approved

Storage Options

A range of storage options are available for all vessel types. Round containers are for storing large IBA's with rack and ramp options. Flat, low profile containers or easy to carry valises are available for smaller IBA's and liferafts.

Choosing Liferrafts

The VIKING IBA and Coastal Liferrafts are both USCG approved as out-of-water survival craft. However, there can be certain situations where the Coastal Liferaft would be a better choice, for example if operations involve cold waters and foul weather conditions.

The insulated floor and a canopy provide additional protection against the elements. The IBA is designed for fair weather where quick rescue is expected.
