Black Tuxedo

The black tuxedo is the most elegant look and it should be styled that way down to the feet. The three most popular options are the patent shoe, black velvet loafer and wholecut leather shoe.

White Tuxedo

Similar to the black tuxedo, this is one of the most formal looks and should not be ruined with a lazy shoe selection. You will absolutely have the focus of the room on you with this jacket and we suggest the black patent shoe as number one option. If you want to be a bit more modern we can use the black or burgundy loafer. An outside the box idea would be this black single monk shoe with the suede strap or possibly the black velvet loafer with white trim.

Navy Tuxedo

This is still an elegant look but with the intent to add a bit of fashion to it. The same message should be reflected by your shoes. What we've seen to work the best are the following three options. A patent shoe, a navy velvet loafer and a blue and black velvet loafer.

Black Suit

The suit was chosen to look formal but also to wear for black tie and formal events down the road. This is where you can have a little bit of fun with your options. The best ideas for this look are a wholecut black polished leather shoe, a burgundy leather loafer and an exotic leather loafer (ostrich).

I got the right size, Bruce and the gang were extremely helpful. Check out Crossover, and thanks again.

Light Blue Suit

A light blue suit, typically chosen for spring or summer. Similar to the grey suit you will want to pick a tan suede loafer, cognac leather shoe or grey suede loafer.

Light Grey Suit

The light grey suit is a beautiful spring and summer option. The internet has convinced you that light brown or black is the only colour option to work with it but that's wrong. They are an option, but there are others as well. Consider a navy suede loafer, a tan suede loafer or an olive leather.

Navy Suit

This is the suit you bought to become your go to suit after the wedding. Navy matches well with many colours and that's what you should remember when picking a shoe. You can pick black or brown but the actual best choice is burgundy, dark brown, navy and dark green. Depending on the season, this could mean a loafer, shoe or boot.

Tan Suit

One of our favourite choices with so many fun options. A mid brown suede loafer will give a formal look or navy works too. A light grey suede loafer or cobalt blue leather for some pop in the outfit.

Burgundy Suit

Burgundy is the fun suit that lets you stand out at your wedding but also displays your personality. The shoe must do the same. Black is safe but you should also consider a tan loafer or boot. The third colour is navy blue which we've shown in a suede boot, a leather loafer.
