

Taking Care of Your Ezcaray Mohair

Responsibly crafted from the hair of the Angora goat, Ezcaray's extra-fine mohair is soft, warm, cozy, and extremely durable despite its delicate appearance. When treated with care, it will last a lifetime.

General Care

Store your mohair in a cool, dark place. Never store it in plastic as the fibres need to breathe.

For day-to-day care, brush your scarf or blanket with a hard clothes-brush in the direction of the nap. Coax gently to keep it fluffy and tangle-free.

If needed, steam your mohair to restore the pile (a kettle or iron may be used, held approximately six inches from the fabric).

How to Remove Stains

Due to its anti-static properties, mohair does not attract a great deal of dirt. However, in the case of stains such as fruit juice or coffee, promptly spot clean your mohair with a gentle detergent or shampoo. Liquor and spirit stains should be treated with pure alcohol. Lay flat to dry.

In the case of larger stains, bring your scarf or blanket to a trusted dry cleaner.
