Rebekah is best known for assisting collectors with the identification and valuation of vintage Steiff collectibles.

I truly lead the "Steiff Life". My German grandmother kindled my love for the brand over four decades ago, and I am the proud steward of many of her childhood Steiff treasures.

My passion became my vocation for several years when I had the pleasure of working full time for the US division of Margarete Steiff GmbH as the Marketing Manager. Today, I am one of Steiff's official spokespeople, attending events and programs on behalf of the company, where I identify and value items for collectors across the nation. I also work for a major auction house, and have Steiff connections nationally and internationally. If it has to do with vintage Steiff, I can most certainly help you, or point you to the person who can.
