Nehemiah 1:3, 1:4, 2:1, 2:2, 2:5, 2:8, 2:9, 2:17

Nehemiah was the cupbearer who served wine to King Artaxerxes.

The king asked Nehemiah, "Why are you so sad?"

Nehemiah answered, "Please, O King, send me to Jerusalem so that I may rebuild the city..."

"...also give me timber so that I can rebuild the gates of the city."

Nehemiah fasted and prayed to God for help.

Nehemiah heard that the walls of Jerusalem were broken down...

The king granted Nehemiah's wish and sent soldiers to protect him.

Nehemiah cried when he heard the bad news.

...and the gates had been burned with fire.

Nehemiah soon began rebuilding the walls of Jerusalem.

Forgiven

There was no radio contact from Nate all Sunday night. On Monday a search party was organized.

Kathy was awakened early Tuesday morning by helicopters landing at Shell Mera to begin the search for her father and the others. As she gazed out the window at the helicopters, she heard her mother's voice.

"Happy birthday," Marj said, motioning Kathy to follow her. "Although Daddy isn't here today, he would still want you to have a party," Marj said pointing to a decorated table out in the yard.

It was a very happy birthday. The cake, the presents and all the people wishing her a happy seventh birthday made it seem like any other birthday; however, the big planes and the serious faces of all the adults kept reminding Kathy that her daddy was missing in the jungle.

"Search and rescue to Shell Mera, come in Shell Mera," the radio crackled loudly.

"This is Shell Mera," Marj answered, "go ahead."

"We have sighted a body in the river near 'Palm Beach'," the voice on the radio said.

There was silence in the room. The wives knew that trying to reach the Aucas with the gospel could be dangerous, but they had all agreed that any risk, including the loss of life, was worth it. The next day, officials came to the house to speak to the wives alone in Marj's bedroom. After the meeting, Marj gathered Kathy and her brothers together.

"The search party has found Daddy and the others," Marj said calmly. "Daddy and his friends are not going to come back home, because they went from 'Palm Beach' straight to heaven."

"How long will it take Daddy to get to heaven?" one of Kathy's brothers asked.

"He is already there," Marj replied with a smile, "I think he arrived a couple of days ago."

That week, as Kathy celebrated her seventh birthday at Shell Mera, Nate and his friends celebrated their arrival into heaven. Over time, Kathy began to understand what a wonderful celebration that must have been.

The deaths of the 5 missionaries on "Palm Beach" did not discourage other missionaries from trying to reach the Aucas with the gospel. Nates's sister, Rachel, knew an Auca woman living near one of the mission camps. The woman, whose name was Dayuma, had run away from the Auca village because other Aucas had killed her father and brother. Rachel began learning the Auca language from Dayuma, and as she did, Rachel taught Dayuma many Bible stories. Before long, Dayuma had accepted Jesus as her Savior.

One day 2 women travelled from the Auca village trying to find Dayuma to tell her that her mother wanted her to return to the village. Dayuma went back to the Auca village to visit her mother.

Dayuma told the Aucas how Rachel her the of Jesus a cross.

taught story dying on "We have never heard such a wonderful story," the Aucas said.

"This is the story that the men in the airplane were going to tell you," Dayuma said, "but you killed them before they could tell you."

The Auca leaders decided that Dayuma should ask Rachel to come and live in the village with them and tell them about Jesus. Rachael agreed to go to the Auca village and teach the Aucas about Jesus. God had finally opened the door to the Auca village.

When Kathy was 11 years old, she went to visit her aunt Rachel at the Auca village. Kathy spent several summers with her Aunt Rachel and the Aucas. Even though the Aucas had killed her daddy, Kathy found them easy to love.

During one visit, Kathy went to "Palm Beach," the spot where her father his life for There gave Christ. Kathy was baptized by two Auca men named Kimo and Duywi, 2 of the Aucas who killed her daddy and the other 4 missionaries. Kimo and Duywi had been saved and were now "preachers" in the Auca village. Kathy's Aunt Rachel was there and translated Kimo's prayer as he baptized Kathy.

"Lord, we were here a long time ago," Kimo prayed, "but our hearts were different then."

Today the Auca Indians are called Waorani Indians. Many Waoranis have become Christians because of the sacrifice of Nate Saint and the other missionaries.

Gikita, the Waorani who actually killed Kathy's father, Nate, was interviewed for a Christian film in 1992. When asked about that day on "Palm Beach," Gikita said, "I have killed many men, but I know that I am forgiven. Someday, when I get to heaven, I will look up Nate Saint, and I will throw my arms around him, and we will be friends forever."
