The next generation of leaders is already here.

To attract and retain top talent, today's best and brightest companies invest in employee development. Good development programs attract growth-oriented individuals, create a strong talent pipeline, and improve both employee engagement and loyalty. They turn today's good leaders into great leaders.

For more than 25 years, JER HR Group has helped non-profit, for-profit, and governmental organizations create healthy, high performance, people-focused work environments. Our executive development consultants are nationally recognized experts in communication styles, behavioral and employment assessments, adult learning principles, and the ability to create high-retention educational experiences that influence behavior and directly impact the company's culture, goals and bottom-line.

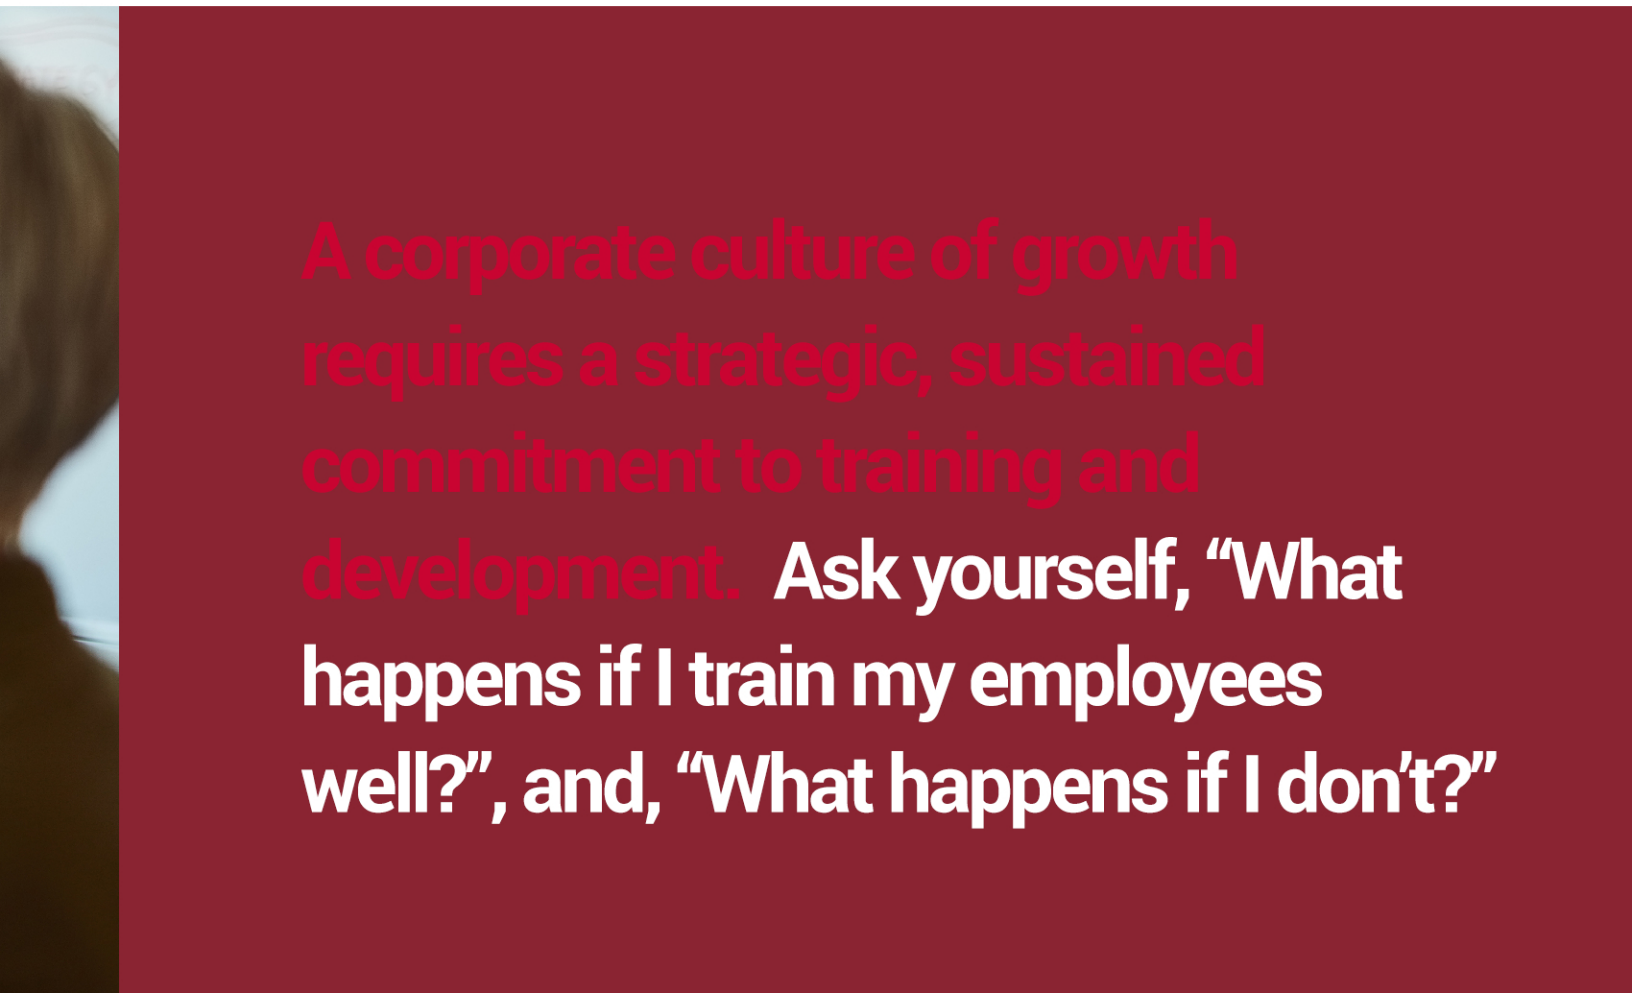

Grow your people, grow your business.

JER HR Group helps you tackle today's strategic issues, and engages management and staff in looking ahead to assess the next generation of skills required. Our development programs have 3 key features: Customized Content to fit your unique needs, Individual Attention which combines coaching with the best assessment tools in the business, and Ongoing Education, because learning should never stop.

We provide a broad range of learning opportunities and methodologies. Topics include leadership/ supervisory training and development, creativity and innovation, team building, conflict management, time and project management, communication, and change management. JER HR Group is also uniquely qualified to deliver diversity training, organizational culture awareness/change management, and employee engagement surveys. For a complete, up-to-date list of our programs, please visit JERHRGroup.com.

Through Training Network, we help organizations prepare for the unanticipated, with safety training programs including active shooter training, sexual harassment prevention, and emergency preparedness. Visit TrainingNetwork.com to learn more about workforce safety, LMS and e-Learning training options.

A corporate culture of growth requires a strategic, sustained commitment to training and development. Ask yourself, “What happens if I train my employees well?”, and, “What happens if I don’t?”
