Meet Susan Lyell

RESTORATION ROSE FOUNDER

RESTORATION
ROSE

As a trained soap maker and expert rose gardener, Susan Lyell infuses her oils, soaps and plant-based beauty products with rose petals right from her organic sustainable farm. The goal of Restoration Rose is to share her rose petals and knowledge to benefit your emotional and physical well being through self care and clean beauty.

Susan realized the sense of well being scent provided and has spent most of her life creating mood altering essential oil blends for friends and family.

Antique and heirloom roses provide a charm and fragrance that are far superior to most modern roses. They were mostly bred to be grown as garden shrubs rather than the Hybrid Tea grown for the show table. As a result, they are vigorous and healthy.

Susan set out to create a collection for her urban garden that has grown to more than 700 varieties.

A firm believer that the "scent of the rose remains, too, in the hand of the giver" Susan shares her passion for roses through her soap and skin care in the hopes that others will experience the serenity roses have given her.

PRODUCT OVERVIEW

What's in our products?

We believe in the power of Mother Nature.

The purest, finest, most effective forms of vitamins, minerals, essential fatty acids and other skin benefits are naturally occurring in plants.

We do not believe nature needs to be replicated in a laboratory to create a superior product. In fact, we aren't keen at all on synthetic and artificial ingredients.

We formulated and designed our products to reduce waste and our carbon footprint. Undiluted concentrated products require less usage and thus longer lasting goodness.
