I don't like writing bios. I get that it's helpful to know some things about me before deciding to engage in a life changing journey together, I just can't seem to articulate what my work means to me. I can tell you that I have a bachelors degree in Child Development from the University of Minnesota, with a minor in Family Violence and Prevention. I can say that I have a master's degree in Marriage and Family Therapy from Adler Graduate School. Even if I went into my work history with several years of providing in home supportive and therapeutic services as well as a few years of outpatient therapy services, I still wouldn't be telling you what it means to me to be a psychotherapist, or what kind of practitioner I really am. I love helping families through hard times and I do this through therapy services, parent coaching and parent training classes. Please don't hesitate to reach out to me so we can talk about which services may be a good fit for you!

I am a licensed psychologist with 27 years experience working with families and children. I am also a mother of three children. I have taught all of the different Love and Logic programs in the southeastern region of MN as well as worked individually with families (foster and adoptive, as well) dealing with trauma, divorce, attachment, and various other mental health issues. My experience has taught me that the quickest way to see progress with a struggling child is to help parents learn a new way to respond to them. Love and Logic has helped many of the families that I have worked with and has been invaluable to my own family.

I have used the Love and Logic system for about 35 years. I currently own my own childcare/preschool, and again, using the Love and Logic approach with 14 preschool/school age children daily is the way to go! This common sense approach really works, for parents, educators, and their children. I am also a certified Trainer with the Minnesota Professional Center for Development, offering classes through our local Child Care Resource and Referral office, Think Small. If you live in the northern Suburbs of the Twin Cities, you can contact me for group classes in my home or yours, with a group of friends/relatives or by advertising to the neighbors. The more parents and providers who learn to use Love and Logic, the better it is for all. Calmer parents and classrooms, children who are learning to be responsible for their own choices and actions, and more love to be spread because everyone is less stressed!

As a parent of six children and with over two decades of experience in mental health, I've dedicated my life to empowering parents and caregivers through Love and Logic parenting principles. My journey with Love and Logic began in 2007, and since then, I've passionately facilitated workshops in diverse settings, including hospitals, prisons, and the public sector. In 2017, I relocated to Minnesota, bringing with me the transformative tools of Love and Logic. With a deep understanding of human behavior and a commitment to fostering healthy relationships between parents and children, I strive to equip families with practical strategies to navigate the challenges of parenting with confidence and compassion. Through Love and Logic, I aim to inspire positive change and create thriving, resilient families in every community I serve.
