Curriculum : Parenting the Love and Logic Way

Tiffany has a Master's Degree in Occupational Therapy and 16 years of experience working with children and their families. She became a Love and Logic facilitator in May 2014. Her expertise includes working with children who have self-regulation difficulties. Her interventions support children's abilities to play, learn and interact with others more successfully in the home and community. She also helps children perform activities of daily living such as dressing, bathing, toileting, feeding and sleeping more independently. She provides families with practical strategies to support improved self-regulation using positive and proactive sensory, behavioral and environmental strategies.
