As a Mom of 3 college age boys with 23 years of parenting under her belt, Kim is excited to now be sharing her passion for love and logic with other parents. From the time she read her first Love and Logic book back in 2003, the Love and Logic philosophy has been life changing for her as a parent. Kim went on to spend 3 days in Denver participating in the Instructor training seminar provided by Jim and Charles Fay. Having had 3 boys under the ages of 3 & 1/2yrs, Kim knows first hand the challenges of raising kids and staying sane! With humor and love she will walk with you through this great program, encouraging you to be the best parent you can be!

Supporting Youth with Challenging Past,

Supporting Youth with Special Needs

Lois has been practicing as a Mental Health/Christian Counselor for 19 years and has been Independent Facilitator of Love and Logic B. curricula for over 6 years.

She uses the strategies almost daily in her private life as well as her counseling practice and thinks the Love and Logic philosophy could also be considered communication 11 with all its strategies of basic communication. Being in practice allows her to further assist in helping people tweak the strategies to their individual circumstances. Please see my website and go to the events page or click here

I am formerly an elementary school educator. I am also completing my master's program in Clinical Mental Health Counseling. I have been working in the classroom and with parents using the Love and Logic curriculum and principles for over 15 years. I work with schools (for parents and educators), individual educator training, parenting groups (in homes and churches), and individual parent coaching. I also work with the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee's school of education. I truly enjoy all aspects of Love and Logic and value all my trainings. I am always learning new approaches from those I work with as this is a program that allows us all to be who we are while honing our skills.

I've been a School Psychologist since 2004. I view Love and Logic as a treasure that I love to share with others. I feel that it shifts the perspectives of adults to accept that they can only control themselves and their reactions. Once adults learn to avoid power struggles, they can use all that extra energy to develop strong, healthy relationships with their loved ones. I have been using Love and Logic tools with my own 5 children ages 2-13. My favorite part of offering the course is the comradery that develops between parents once they realize that they are not alone in their mission to raise happy, healthy, responsible children. Please feel free to contact me to set up a class!

Kristal Melbye lives in the Milwaukee area but is willing to travel.

Kristal Melbye has a bachelors degree in Elementary Education and graduate work in Special Education. She began her career teaching for seven years in Milwaukee Public Schools in third through sixth grade.

When she began her family, she started researching parenting philosophies. When she found Love and Logic, she knew it was exactly what she'd been looking for. She loved how it held children responsible while focusing on keeping a strong relationship with them. Wanting to share it with other parents, she began to facilitate Parenting the Love and Logic Way. And, since she wished she'd known about Love and Logic when she was a teacher, she soon became a facilitator for educators as well. Her four children are now in their teens and she's seeing the difference being raised with Love and Logic is making in their lives.

Kristal teaches Love and Logic classes and seminars for parents and educators, as well as doing individualized individual Parent Coaching. Her goal is to help adults build strong relationships with the children in their lives to help them grow into respectful and responsible adults.

Curriculum : Early Childhood Parenting Made Fun!, Parenting the Love and Logic Way, 9 Essential Skills for the Love and Logic Classroom

I received my bachelors in Elementary Education at the University of Wisconsin-Madison and my masters in School Counseling from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. Though I have worked in lower elementary situations I am most comfortable in the middle school area. Except for a few years off when my children were young, I have been in the school setting for most of my adult life.

Currently I work primarily with the Parenting The Love and Logic Way and the 9 Essential Skills for the Love and Logic Classroom. I have many classes during the school year and have found creative ways to assist parents in setting up classes. Schools often ask me to do teacher training during the prep time before school starts as well as inservice settings. Facilitating, training, coaching in the theory and principals of Love and Logic as well as meeting wonderful families and watching them grow are a privilege I am grateful to have be a part of my life.

I have been a foster parent for my county since 2000. I increased my certification to become a Treatment Foster Home in 2010. I have one grown son and one adopted, special needs boy. I have had A LOT of parenting classes and trainings. Love and Logic, by far, offers the best tools for working with kids. I have lots of stories and hope you will call to set up your own training. We will share laughs and with each session you will go home with strategies to help your kiddos.

Essential Skills for the Love and Logic Classroom

Chris Peterson is a husband, a father, and an educator. Don't ask him what he teaches because his response is always "young people". Chris has had the fortune of graduating twice from the University of Wisconsin LaCrosse; receiving a BS in Health and Physical Education and an MS in PE with an Adventure Education emphasis. Here he had countless opportunities to work with great educators from all over the state. Chris moved to the West Coast in 1999 and spent two years teaching and coaching young people. It was in the Portland, Oregon area where he received his experience working with a very diverse population of students. He had the fortune to work with Jim and Charles Fay while completing his independent facilitator training for Parenting the Love and Logic Way®. Chris and his wife feel blessed to raise their children with these strategies. He has had the opportunity to meet thousands of educators while presenting at conferences including: Wisconsin Education Association Council (WEAC)
