

SHIT THAT I KNIT

Group Orders

Handcrafted knitwear designed to keep you cozy season after season.

Founded in 2014 by knitting enthusiast, Christina Fagan Pardy, we employ female artisans in Peru to handcraft our products using high-quality, ethically sourced materials.

DESIGNED BY WOMEN, CRAFTED BY WOMEN

We're on a mission to bring high-quality, handcrafted knitwear to communities around the world.

We believe that when you invest in brands that care for their people and the planet, you'll feel - and look - your best.

OUR VALUES

UNCOMPROMISING QUALITY

Our materials are sourced from eco-friendly and sustainable materials - 100% merino wool, alpaca wool, and pima cotton.

CARE FOR OUR PEOPLE

We employ 200+ artisans in Lima, Peru to handcraft our products, and we pay them fairly so they can support their families.

COMMUNITY DRIVEN

We're continuously inspired by the passionate, diverse women who make up our STIK community.

LIGHTHEARTED & FUN

With a name like Sh*t That I Knit, our identity is grounded on light-hearted banter and a fun-loving tone.

OUR PERUVIAN IMPACT

Margarita Perea,
Knitting Group Leader

Marilu Crusat, Knitter

Isabel Pelaez, Knitter

We employ more than 400 artisans – mainly working mothers – in Lima, Peru to handcraft all of our products. Working with STIK enables these women to knit from home, earning a fair wage to take care of their children and to support their families.

As a female-founded brand, it's important to use our supply chain to support other women. Our knitters manage their own books and workloads, essentially running their own small business.

We are dedicated to empowering this community of mothers and supporting local craft.
