13. RON WHITE THE FOOT SHOPPE

Manulife Centre, 55 Bloor St. W., 416-964-6400, ronwhite.ca

After standing in line for screenings all day, the shoes here are saviours for weary soles. Puma's Nuala line, designed by yoganista Christy Turlington, shares space with an array of Stuart Weitzman flats (and yes, high-heeled evening shoes too). MBT (Masai Barefoot Technology) styles — which purport to tone tushes and fight fat with every step — are also a draw, but it's foot-repreneur White's role as the exclusive stockist of Anyi Lu (tasseled leopard-print and calfskin flats and adorable spectator pumps) and huge selection of Thierry Rabotin's comfy-chic shoes (cushioned with materials developed by NASA) that please visiting celebs and the film-festival circuit crowd.
