Inspired by a poem written by nine year old Tamzyne Richardson, My Home Broome is a rich collage of interesting facts and vibrant artwork that reflects the town's rich history and diverse ecology. The illustrations include a range of artworks by local primary school children who worked with artist Bronwyn Houston.

CLASSROOM IDEAS

• Before reading My Home Broome, brainstorm what students may already know about Broome.
• Each page opening of My Home Broome features a specific feature of the town. Create a list of these features. In small groups, categorise these features, devising your own sub-headings.
• Select one of the page openings on which to conduct further research. What information, if any, could you add to this page?
• What does the author think about Broome? What clues does the reader get that show her connection to the town?
• Discuss the term ‘home’. What makes a place a home? Where’s your home?
• Use Google Earth to visit Broome online. Use ‘street view’ to visit some of the features of Broome that feature in the text.
• Research the pearling industry in Broome and the impact that this industry has had on the cultural diversity of the region. Create an information report that shares your findings.
• Broome became home to many new cultures as a result of the pearling industry. Find evidence of different cultures that feature in My Home Broome.
• Select one of the local species of flora or fauna in My Home Broome to investigate further. How do local species help to define a community?
• Make bush damper using the recipe included in My Home Broome.
• As a class or in small groups, create your own book about your home. Brainstorm geographical, cultural and historical features that make the place you live unique. Plan an excursion to capture these features using digital cameras and sketches. Write poetry and use your images to help create a book.
• Using just the poem from My Home Broome, investigate the poetic techniques used by the author. Use these techniques to help with the creation of your own poem about your area.
• Experiment with collage and the artistic techniques used by the illustrators in My Home Broome. Use similar techniques when illustrating your own book/page.
• Interview a community member about their memories and experiences of living in your city, town, suburb or region. Write a feature article that shares this person’s perspectives.
• What is Broome-talk? Give examples from the text. Does your local community have its own type of language?
