Two Mates
Written by Melanie Prewett
Illustrated by Maggie Prewett

Teacher Notes prepared by Christina Wheeler

OVERVIEW
Set in Broome in Australia’s north west, Two Mates shares the true story of Jack’s and Raf’s special mateship. Jack is Indigenous and Raf is a non-Indigenous boy who has Spina bifida. Together they explore, hunt, play and laugh. The fact that Raf is confined to a wheelchair is only revealed at the end of the story, allowing the reader to see that true friendship has no obstacles.

THEMES
• Friendship
• Spina bifida
• Intercultural understanding
• Broome
• Aboriginal culture and customs

AUDIENCE AND WRITING STYLE
Two Mates is told from Jack’s point of view. The language is tangible to young readers and allows the audience to engage with the story. Supported by photographs of the real two mates and information about Spina bifida, this book challenges readers to consider disability and inclusion.

LINKS TO THE AUSTRALIAN CURRICULUM
This book and the classroom activities provided are primarily relevant to English and Geography for year levels 1–4. The appendix highlights relevant content descriptions, cross-curriculum priorities and general capabilities.

CULTURAL NOTES
Two Mates is particularly good for exploring intercultural understanding between Indigenous and non-Indigenous Australians and explores some aspects of Aboriginal culture. For information about teaching Australian Indigenous content see Teaching Indigenous content with Magabala Books.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR AND ILLUSTRATOR
Melanie and Maggie Prewitt are descended from the Ngarluma people of the Pilbara region of Western Australia. They are mother and daughter, and Melanie is Jack’s mother.

Melanie was inspired to tell the story of Jack and Raf’s friendship and their life in Broome to show physical disability really is no barrier to true friendship. Maggie’s art is held in collections throughout Australia and she has illustrated several Magabala children’s titles.
CLASSROOM IDEAS

• Look carefully at the end covers of Two Mates. Why do you think the illustrator has chosen to draw feathers all over the end covers? What do these feathers represent?

• Two Mates is narrated by Jack. Retell this story from Raf’s point of view.

• Create your own story about you and one of your friends. What sorts of things do you do together? Where do you do them?

• Invite a guest speaker to talk about spina bifida. Create a brochure to help inform people about this disease.

• What are each of the two boys’ skills and talents? How do the boys’ strengths and weaknesses complement each other?

• After reading Two Mates, write a reflection about the story and the message that the author and illustrator are conveying to the audience.

• Compare this book on friendship with other picture books about friendship such as Pearl Barley and Charlie Parsley by Aaron Blabey.

• Why have the author and illustrator waited until the last page to show Raf in his wheelchair? Would your reading of this story have been different had you known that earlier?

• Discuss whether or not people might pre-judge Raf for being in a wheelchair.

• Family plays an important role in the lives of Jack and Raf. Find examples from the text that show evidence of this.

• Create a photo journal that shares the story of a special friendship that you have. PhotoStory is a good program for this.

• Look closely at the illustrations of the two mates. What do Maggie Prewett’s pictures tell us about the boys’ friendship?

• Draw a self-portrait and/or a portrait of your friend in a style similar to that of Maggie Prewett. Take note of the way in which she exaggerates certain facial features such as cheekbones, lips and eyes.

• Research the Kimberley region of Western Australia. Create a poster to promote this region to tourists.

• Brainstorm a list of features about your home town. Include things such as climate, pastimes, and places to visit.

• Many of Jack’s and Raf’s activities reflect the the place they live, Broome. How might their activities together be different if they lived near you?

• Use Google Earth to visit Broome on the internet. Create a story map of Two Mates that shows Broome and the places the boys visit along with the activities they enjoy together.
