On the day of the week the day of the month of in the year 57 corresponding to the day of in the year the sacred covenant of marriage was entered into in ~

The beloveds

and were united in marriage. We pledged our eternal love years ago affirming the heritage of our people. On that special day we promised to support one another with loving-kindness, to honor each other in faithfulness and to protect one another with devotion. We celebrate our union today and the blessings and challenges, the joys and sorrows, the laughter and tears that we've shared through the years. As we continue to grow together, we shall honor one another, maintaining our spiritual home filled with peace, happiness and compassion as our love deepens. We will continue to encourage one another to fulfill our dreams and to follow our chosen paths. Let the days ahead bring good health to ourselves and to our loved ones, and may the passages of life be celebrated in joy. We will always be mindful that our days together are a gift and be ever grateful for each new day. I shall love you always and you will forever be my heart's companion.
