MEASURING GUIDE FOR SUITS, SPORTCOATS AND PANTS

Suit and sport coat sizes have one number and one descriptive word (for example, 38 short, 40 regular, 42 long). The number refers to your chest measurement, and the descriptive word refers to the length of the jacket.

SUIT JACKETS AND SPORTCOATS

Over Arm

With arms at your sides, have someone measure around the broadest part of your shoulders and upper arms. Be sure to keep the tape measure even in the front and back.

Chest

With arms at your sides, measure around your upper body, under your armpits and over the fullest part of your chest and shoulder blades. Be sure to keep the tape measure even in the front and back, and leave about one to two inches in the front for comfort.

SUIT SEPARATE PANTS AND DRESS PANTS

Waist

Bend to one side to find the natural crease of your waist. Measure at this point, keeping the tape closely held around your waist. Make sure not to include your belt or cell phone.

Seat

Measure all around, across the widest part of your hips and rear-end.

Inseam

Measure from the inside of the crotch, where the two legs meet, to the top of your heel when you are wearing the shoes you will be wearing with the garment.

Suit Length	Height	Men's Suit & Sport Coat Sizes
Short (S)	5'4" to 5'7"	36 38 40 42 44 46 48 50 52 54 56 58 60
Regular (R)	5'7 ½" to 5'11"
Long (L)	5'11 ½" to 6'2 ½"
X-Long (XL)	6'3" and up

- Tall suits are classified as X-Long (6'3" and up).
- Big suits are classified as 50 chest size and up.
- If your over-arm measurement is more than 7" larger than your chest measurement, choose a suit one size larger than your chest.
- Suits have what is called a "drop," which is the difference between the size of the jacket and the size of the pants. Classic-fit suits typically have a 6" drop, meaning that a size 38R jacket is paired with size 32 pants. Trim-fit suits typically have a 7" drop.
- Suit makers usually leave enough extra fabric at the seams to allow pants to be let out by 1 to 2". Pants can always be taken in.
- Suit Separates allow for a separately sized pant to be worn with the jacket. This is particularly helpful when the drop exceeds 6 or 7".
