

EDITORS' PICKS / MAY 8, 2020

LINKS WE LOVE

Happy Friday, friends! We hope you had a great week, all things considered, and have plans for a restful weekend ahead. As usual, we're capping the week off with our favorite finds:

— Have your brows seen better days? Professional waxing and tinting is non-existent in the time of COVID-19, but there are easy at-home solutions. Grace Atwood shares her in-depth process on The Stripe. Once you get the hang of it, you may never return to the salon!

— Need a bouquet for Mom? BloomNation has your back. The company supports local flower shops and studios that were once taken advantage of by the larger wire services, so you can shop local while letting Mom know how special she is. See their selection here.

— It seems like masks will be our reality for many months to come. Why not wear one that you love? Eberjey's limited-edition washable masks are made by their expert seamstresses using up-cycled fabric from past collections and include three layers of protection.

— Elsie Home just launched its spring collection. Pillows that have light and bright patterns, earthy and natural elements, and luxurious texture. Plus, a new throw pillow is the quickest way to update a space. Shop the collection here.

— Has anyone made kitchens more stylish than designer Sarah Sherman Samuel and the team at Semihandmade?! The stylish doors and hardware fit Ikea cabinets. The latest collection, Quarterline, has a more minimal look and fills the space between Shaker and full-slab doors.

— We're currently obsessed with Pom Pom at Home, and this striped blanket is at the top of our wish list. So coastal chic!

*Image originally published here.