Courtney Siebring

Children's Author • Speaker

Courtney Siebring's debut children's book, Little Spark of Life is fueled by her passion for the unborn and their mamas as well as her own experience as a foster and adoptive parent. Her devotion to Christ, background in theatre, current work as a voiceover artist, and long-time practice of writing poetry informs the way she sees and interacts with the world.

Courtney firmly believes that we learn through story. Our earliest encounters with stories shape our values for a lifetime. Little Spark of Life intends to equip parents and caregivers to capture their children's imaginations and guide their hearts toward truth by providing a story that will do just that. This book helps normalize family conversations on topics such as reproduction, being male or female, and the miracle of human life.

Examples of presentation or interview topics:

- * Awake Parenting in a Woke World: Nothing is neutral. Everything in today's culture is either moving us toward or pulling us away from a biblical worldview. Let's take a critical look at the influences within our homes, ask some questions, and evaluate how our intentions as parents (or lack thereof) affects the discipleship of our children.
- * Where Do Babies Come From: Normalize and nurture this topic of conversation by tapping into your child's natural sense of awe and wonder. When your child begins asking questions, follow their curiosity, and help focus it on the good, beautiful, and true. Approach discussions on the miracle of life, gender, and marriage in a natural, positive way.
- * Adoption and Fostering: Compare and contrast my personal experiences in Canada and the US to encourage everyone - single, married, young or old - to participate in these life-changing opportunities in every community.
