EZ Dupe introduces the Holmes 221B Forensic Hard Drive Duplicator

June 26, 2018 – EZ Dupe is thrilled to announce the release of the Holmes 221B Forensic Hard Drive Duplicator at the Police Security Expo 2018. The first of its kind, Holmes 221B possesses new features that can benefit law enforcement in the evidence collection process. The Holmes 221B is ideal for duplication of HDD and SSD containing delicate information not only for its copy speeds of up to 300MB/s, but also its astounding write block, allowing it to duplicate an identical copy of the original source while blocking any modifications to the original source. Holmes 221B allows presenting a duplicated version of a HDD or SSD as original source, which can be confirmed via their Hash values. For further protection on the field, the product also comes in an easy-to-carry, rugged case with an air tight lock. With its write block function and portability, Holmes 221B is sure to be a game changer for the Forensic Field.

Features:

- Allows Duplication as Disk-to-Disk or Disk-to-file
- Makes identical duplication of 2.5" or 3.5" HDD and SSD at speeds up to 300 MB/S (SATA 2)
- Blocks any modification to the source HDD; no data can be changed when you access the source HDD from computer through USB connection
- Hash functions (MD5 and SHA-1) available for verification of image file against the source media
- Log file can be generated
- Destination Erase, including Quick Erase, Full Erase, Secure Erase, and Enhance Secure Erase (Highest erase form on the market)
- Supports HPA/DCO duplication and removal, making sure you have identical hard drives as the original
- Allows duplication even when source has bad sector
