3 x Neapolitans

That we're fans of Naples won't come as a surprise to our readers. Whether you love food, culture or the finest tailoring, the city is definitely worth a visit. We've hand-picked some of the Neapolitan manufacturers that we're particularly fond of at the moment, who are all offering exciting new collections right now

1. Eduardo De Simone Black

De Simone's clothing line Black continues to impress and with its mix of classic suits and smart casual we're certain to see more from this manufacturer in the future. Take a look at these classic safari jackets for example. Last winter they were launched as a limited-edition collection made from Harris tweed and Fox flannel while the spring edition has been adapted to suit the warmer season with materials such as Japanese denim. All collections are tutto fatto a mano in Naples of course!

2. Saint Gregory

For such a tiny country population wise, Sweden is particularly spoilt when it comes to great tailors – both with the native and the many travelling tailors who come to visit; Saint Gregory is one of the tailors who have most recently started to make frequent visits to Sweden. Saint Gregory offer hand-sewn suits that follow every step of the Neapolitan tradition. In addition to bespoke tailoring they also offer made-to-measure and ready-to-wear.

3. Vanacore Napoli

Shirt-maker Vanacore offers the very best in Italian shirt-tailoring – handmade with the finest details; from the shoulder stitching to the buttonholes and the best fabrics from the most prominent textile manufacturers in the world. The amazing collar models are really what make Vanacore stand out however, with variations from well-crafted button-downs to S-shaped spread collars.
