CBD HEMP DIRECT is aware of the COVID-19 virus and the affect it's having across the globe and in our local communities; however, our agriculture business and the alternative health products we provide are deemed "essential," so our website will remain open during normal business hours.

Rest assured, we are closely monitoring the spread of the coronavirus cases and weighing the impact of the virus on our clients and our staff. We have taken the precautions outlined by the CDC and will follow any additional guidelines provided by our State and Federal Regulators.

With most consumers moving to online ordering and home delivery for scarce daily "essentials," our preferred mail carriers are reporting increased mail volume which will most certainly result in package delays. All we ask is to be understanding during these challenging times as we navigate uncharted territory together.

All the best,

CBD Hemp Direct!
