Message from our Leadership

For nearly a century, Canadian Tire has proudly supported communities from coast-to-coast. In 2005, the fundamental spirit of giving instilled by our founders, A.J. and J.W. Billes, was ignited by Jumpstart’s Chairman Emeritus, Martha Billes. She had a bold, determined vision: a Canada where all kids have a chance to fulfill their dreams, where no child is left out of sport and recreation.

This vision led to the inception of Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities, a national charity dedicated to helping kids overcome the barriers to play. Today, through the steadfast support of Canadian Tire CEO Stephen Wetmore, this foundational spirit of giving continues to define who we are and what we strive to do at Jumpstart.

Our mission, to enrich the lives of kids in need through sports and physical activity, is being pursued with great passion and dedication. In 2018, a record breaking year for Jumpstart, we disbursed over $20 million to help bring happiness and inspiration to the lives of more than 310,000 kids in financial need.

We believe that all kids of all abilities deserve the opportunity to be active. Not only is this important for physical health, but sport and play teach valuable, transferrable skills, and have the power to put kids on a positive path for life. When given a chance to follow their dreams, there’s no telling how far kids can go.

In the inaugural year of our Play Finds A Way movement, we disbursed more than $6 million dollars, built five inclusive playgrounds, and awarded nine accessibility grants. We achieved a major milestone in October with the grand openings of Jumpstart Playgrounds in Charlottetown and Winnipeg, bringing the joy of inclusive, accessible play to kids and families in those communities. This spring, those in Toronto, Prince Albert, and Calgary will experience the same joy as our movement grows in striving towards our goal of building an inclusive playground in every province and territory by 2022.

This year, we continue our pursuit of bringing inclusive play to all Canadians. None of these accomplishments would be possible without our countless champions and friends, including our Jumpstart Board of Directors, Dealers, and many more. Every child we help is a child with new hope, our contribution to a better Canada.

We are so grateful for your support and generosity. As we look ahead, we are on track to make 2019 our best year ever. We are filled with optimism for the lives still to be impacted. By working together, more barriers will fall, more doors will open, and more children will feel the wind at their backs: what could be better than that?

Sincerely,

John Furlong

Big Dreams On and Off the Court

Raphaela is a Jumpstart kid who started playing basketball in Grade 6. She fell in love with the game from a young age, captivated by the energy, competition, and feeling of being part of a team.

By Grade 10, Raphaela was playing at an elite level, and was invited to try out for the Academy for Student Athlete Development (ASAD) based out of the Abilities Centre in Whitby, Ontario. The ASAD helps student athletes strive for success through their high performance athletic training and academic preparation. Programs for future high performance athletes frequently come with a significant price tag. With Jumpstart's support, kids who have the skills on the court and in the classroom, but face financial barriers, are subsidized and have the same chance to develop as their peers.

Raphaela's ASAD try-out was a success, and she was asked to join the program. She made the difficult decision to move away from her family and hometown of Kingston, Ontario, to follow her dreams.

Since enrolling in ASAD, Raphaela has not only improved her basketball game, she has learned important life skills. "Basketball has taught me to work hard and be patient," said Raphaela, "I am learning that you don't have to do things perfectly the first time."

Now a team captain, she works hard to maintain a balance between academics and sport. In the classroom, she excels at and enjoys math, a subject area in which she now helps her younger teammates.

Raphaela also volunteers with Thrive, an Abilities Centre program that helps adults with disabilities participate in a variety of meaningful activities.

Recently, Raphaela became one of only 13 Canadian girls selected to play on Olympian Kia Nurse's elite U17 basketball team that will compete internationally in 2019.

With big dreams including attending Penn State, Duke, or an Ivy League University on an NCAA basketball scholarship and becoming a lawyer, it's apparent that basketball has inspired confidence and leadership skills in Raphaela and provided her with a world full of possibilities to pursue her dreams.

For more than a decade, Jumpstart has supported kids like Raphaela by helping cover the costs of sport and recreation, including registration, equipment, and transportation. By funding programs like ASAD, Jumpstart helps kids succeed on and off the court, and ultimately, reach their full potential.

A Playground for All

Lily Rich is an active 13-year old from Winnipeg, Manitoba. An honour roll student, she is involved in her school musical, and is a member of the debate team. Lily was born with Cerebral Palsy and competes with Para Storm, the local Para-swimming team run by the Manitoba Cerebral Palsy Sports Association (MCPSA).

Historically, securing an accessible dryland training venue wasn't easy for the Para Storm. That all changed following the completion of the Jumpstart Playground in Winnipeg's Grant Park. The MCPSA held a team dryland training session at the playground in October and were amazed.

Gavin Rich, Lily's father and President of the MCPSA, can attest to this:

"The Jumpstart Playground is unlike anything I have ever seen," said Gavin. "Never have our athletes had access to a playground they could actually participate in! It was the first time many have been on a swing and could access the entire structure on their own. This shows the community what inclusion really means. One playground for all, period."

According to Gavin, the playground's true value is in how it can be enjoyed by everyone, including his daughter. Lily can now play side-by-side with her friends.

The 10,000 square foot, universally accessible Jumpstart Playground in Winnipeg's Grant Park has already set a new standard for inclusive play through its imaginative and accessible spaces where children of all abilities can enjoy sport and play together.

Jumpstart took a considerable step towards creating a more inclusive Canada in 2018. We extended our mandate and addressed new barriers through Play Finds A Way, Canadian Tire Corporation's five-year, $50 million fundraising commitment to help give Canadian kids of all abilities access to sport and play. In addition to the playground in Winnipeg, Jumpstart Playgrounds were built in Charlottetown, Toronto, Prince Albert, and Calgary. With our countless supporters, we are helping more kids across the country enjoy independent play.

Generosity Defined

Malcolm Jenkins, the Canadian Tire Dealer in Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, has always supported his local community. Over the years, he has contributed financially to the local skate park, SPCA building, the soccer fieldhouse, and more. When presented with the opportunity to help build a Jumpstart Playground, he didn't hesitate. In 2018, the Malcolm J. Jenkins Family Foundation generously committed $400,000 to fund an inclusive playground in Prince Albert.

"I have been a part of this amazing community in Prince Albert for 28 years and being able to contribute in a meaningful way brings me great joy," said Malcolm Jenkins. "Our foundation, in partnership with Jumpstart, is proud to help bring inclusive play to Prince Albert and leave a lasting legacy in the city."

Canadian Tire Dealers play a significant role in Jumpstart's success. Not only do they help raise funds through in-store donations and hosting community fundraisers, they share our core values, mission, and vision by personally investing within their communities. Thanks to Canadian Tire Dealers like Malcolm Jenkins, Jumpstart is creating a more inclusive Canada where all kids of all abilities have the opportunity to play.

In 2018, many Dealers generously donated $100,000 or more to help make the dream of universally accessible playgrounds a reality.

The PartCon Trek takes place annually through the PartCon network and raises funds directly in support of Jumpstart. In 2018, the four-day hike through Mont Tremblant raised $167,000.

The Keswick Fishing Derby, run by Canadian Tire Dealer Garry Johnston and his wife Elizabeth, raised more than $56,000 in 2018.

Hosted by Uxbridge Canadian Tire Dealer Pat Higgins, the Gary Roberts and Friends Golf tournament raised $60,500 for Jumpstart in 2018.

Our Strong Foundation

Increasing the connection between employees and Jumpstart fosters a workforce that represents and champions the charity. Employees for Jumpstart, or E4J, is Canadian Tire's annual corporate employee fundraising campaign. In 2018, E4J raised a total of $1.35 million including a corporate match, thanks to employee donations, product and bake sales, dress-down days, silent auctions, raffles, athlete meet-and-greets, and more.

New in 2018, employees were given the opportunity to help build the Jumpstart Playgrounds, and more than 200 rolled up their sleeves to help build a more inclusive Canada with their own hands.

Jumpstart Games are one of our most-loved community initiatives, funded by our generous Canadian Tire Dealers, corporate groups from across the family of companies, sport and government partners, and Jumpstart's Chairman Emeritus Martha Billes. Held coast-to-coast annually, they give kids the opportunity to try new sports, learn skills, make friends, and most important, be inspired to get active. In 2018, thousands of kids participated in 25 Jumpstart Games thanks to more than 1,000 volunteers.

ONE COMPANY. ONE CHARITY.

"JUMPSTART IS THE CORNERSTONE OF OUR COMPANY. IT UNITES EMPLOYEES THROUGH THE SPIRIT OF GIVING AND THE UNDERSTANDING THAT, TOGETHER, WE CAN DRIVE REAL, IMPACTFUL CHANGE ACROSS CANADA. AS THE CHARITY CONTINUES TO HELP MORE KIDS AND BREAK NEW BARRIERS, IT MAKES US ALL STRONGER: NOT ONLY AS A COMPANY, BUT AS A NATION."

— Stephen Wetmore, CEO, Canadian Tire Corporation

Lacing Up for a Good Cause

Looking back on a successful year, and towards what can still be done, we know our strength and success start with dedicated supporters, many of whom come from within our company. From volunteering so more kids can get active, to hosting unique fundraising initiatives, these key supporters help create meaningful community connections and drive local impact.

Lace Up for Jumpstart is an annual hockey tournament organized and run entirely by volunteers, and since 2007, has raised more than $2.4 million for the Charity. In 2018, the three-day tournament featured teams of employees, vendors, and even Jumpstart kids.

In the lead up to the May tournament, multiple fundraisers were held, including a Christmas sample sale, sport ticket silent auctions, pancake breakfasts, and more. With countless opportunities to help, Lace Up represented the largest volunteer event organized for Jumpstart in 2018. Through creativity and innovation, the hard-working Lace Up team raised $365,000 for Jumpstart last year.

Mark's volunteers

Sport Chek's Pedal for Kids, a multi-day cycling tour that raises funds and awareness for Jumpstart, raised more than $100,000 in 2018.

In 2018, thousands of kids participated in 25 Jumpstart Games thanks to more than 1,000 volunteers.

Across the Country and in our Communities

With more than 275 Chapters across Canada, Jumpstart can reach kids in all corners of the country thanks to our network of grantees such as Spirit North, Top Corner Hockey, and Free Footie. From coast to coast, they enable us to impact hundreds of thousands of kids annually by facilitating programs and opportunities for sport and play.

Spirit North is committed to improving the overall well-being of Indigenous children and youth through sport and play: specifically, cross-country skiing. Founded in 2009 by three-time Olympian Beckie Scott, Spirit North currently operates in more than 60 Indigenous communities from British Columbia to Manitoba and helps thousands of kids annually through their programming. Jumpstart's financial support of Spirit North helps the organization foster life-changing transformations and meaningful community impact through the power of sport and play.

Top Corner Hockey provides a safe, stable, and confidence-building experience through hockey in Saint John, New Brunswick. Players come from challenging upbringings, many from protective foster care or from households considered financially at-risk. Jumpstart helps by providing equipment and funds to secure more frequent ice time and travel to neighbouring arenas. Many kids accepted into the program for the 2017-2018 season now play minor hockey thanks to a full Top Corner sponsorship.

Free Footie's mission is to provide vulnerable kids in Edmonton, Alberta with the opportunity to play in a safe, accessible and inclusive environment at no cost. Most of the kids in the program are refugees, new Canadians, or Indigenous. Free Footie's main game of play is soccer, but with help of a grant from Jumpstart, street hockey, basketball and flag rugby are now offered. The program's belief is that when kids are empowered through play, so are their families, schools and communities.

On September 11, 2018, Edmonton Oilers Captain Connor McDavid, along with the Edmonton Oilers Foundation, committed $85,000 to Jumpstart over three years. The donation directly supports Sport as a Platform for Resiliency: an Ever Active Schools initiative that helps facilitate sport and physical activity in Indigenous communities. To celebrate this donation, Connor McDavid made an appearance at a Jumpstart Games in Edmonton, where 300 kids from Indigenous communities and inner-city schools had the opportunity to participate in a fun day of play and meet their hero.

Six months after medalling at his second consecutive Olympic Games, snowboarder Mark McMorris, along with his brother Craig, hosted a Celebrity Slo-Pitch Tournament in Regina. The event showcased some of the best Canadian celebrities and athletes and raised $55,000 for Jumpstart. Since 2012, the McMorris Foundation has raised more than $150,000 for Jumpstart, allowing more than 1,500 Saskatchewan youth to pursue their passion through sport.

In 2018, Jumpstart launched its first-ever online coaching resource. Keeping Girls in Sport teaches coaches and youth leaders how to create safe and respectful environments for girls, and ultimately, helps girls stay enrolled and engaged in sport and physical activity. To encourage registration, Jumpstart received support from the Captain of the Canadian softball team, Jenna Caira. With experience as both an athlete and a coach, Jenna's endorsements of the resource helped drive enrollment, with 2,000 coaches certified by the end of 2018.

After his successful Paralympic debut as a member of Canada's Para Ice Hockey team in PyeongChang, Paralympic silver medallist Dominic Cozzolino inspired Jumpstart supporters by sharing his story at the 2018 Jumpstart Annual Recognition Meeting. On December 11th, 2018, he brought his sledge skills to Winnipeg to help unveil the brand-new Jumpstart Rink at the Dakota Community Centre. Jumpstart provided $250,000 to build the city's first fully-accessible outdoor ice rink for the venue, which had previously received a generous donation of $1 million from Jumpstart Ambassador and Winnipeg native, Jonathan Toews.

From Olympic and Paralympic medallists to NHL All-Stars, Jumpstart Ambassadors share a common virtue: their authentic support of, and belief in, Jumpstart's mandate of helping kids play. From inspiring kids at a Jumpstart Games, to lending their likeness to a campaign, and even donating their own money, Jumpstart Ambassadors are often our MVPs.

Support from our Vendor Partners

Canadian Tire Jumpstart Charities wishes to thank all the vendors whose generous donations help us continue to break down barriers to play. Here are a few standouts from 2018:

ACCENT FAIRCHILD

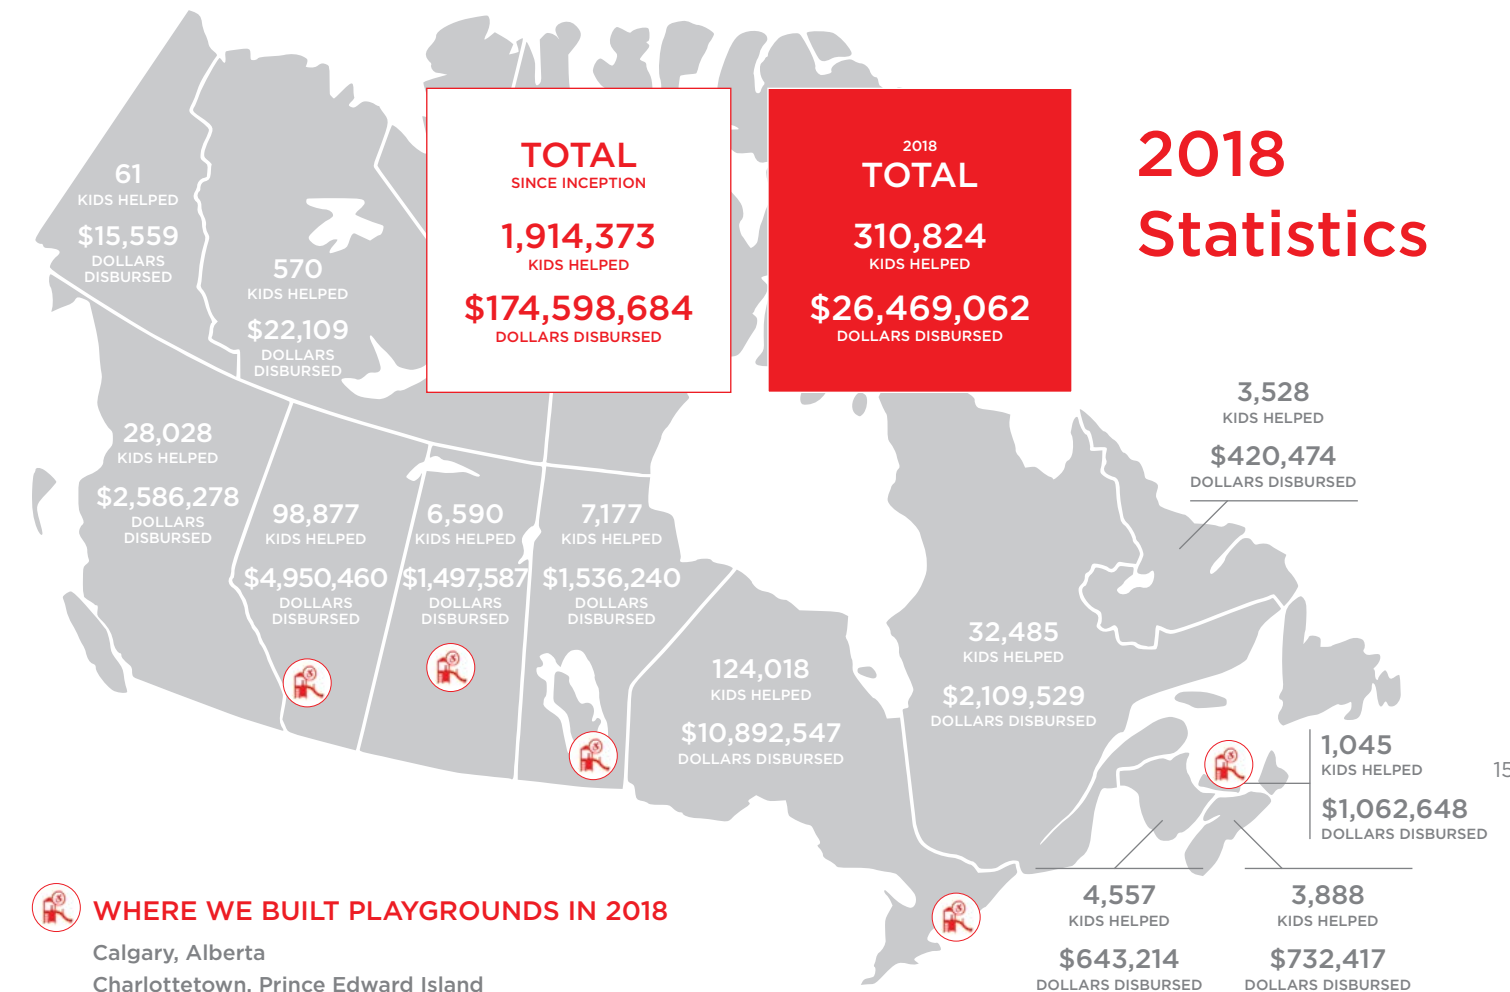

When we announced our intention to build a universally accessible playground in every Canadian province and territory, Accent Fairchild immediately believed in our vision. Supporting play in Charlottetown was a fitting opportunity as the city is home to Canadian Tire's Paderno brand, which Accent Fairchild manufactures. Through a $100,000 commitment in support of Jumpstart's Play Finds A Way movement, Accent Fairchild helped bring Charlottetown's Jumpstart Playground to life, leading the way for vendors as the first to support Play Finds A Way.

GROUPE SEB CANADA

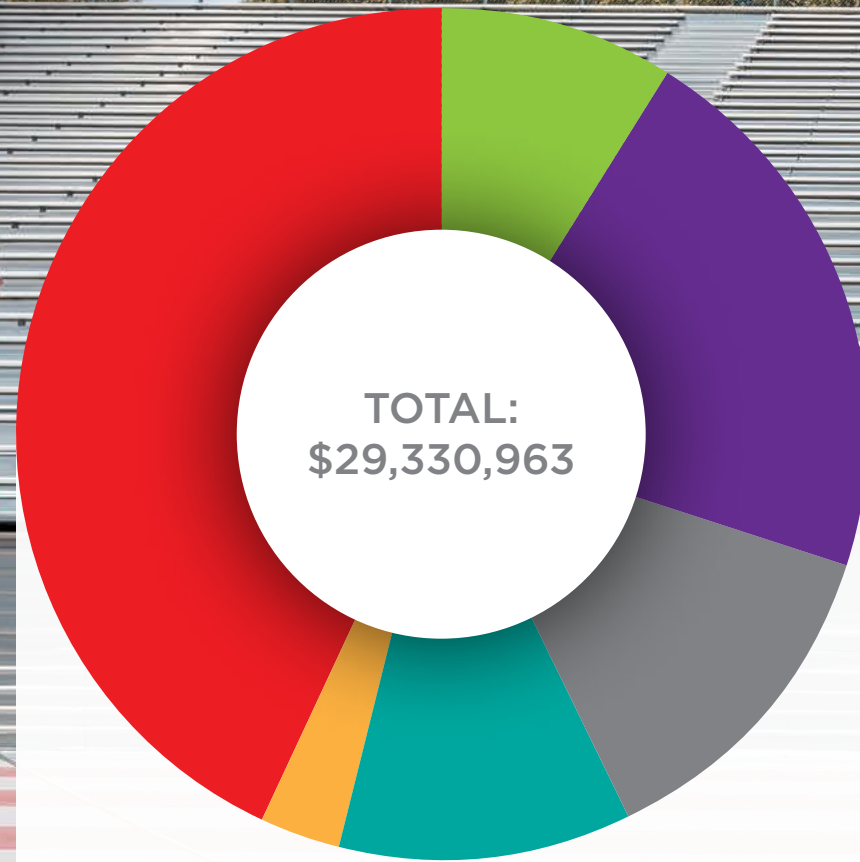

Motivated by our mission, Groupe SEB Canada, the parent company of kitchen brands such as Lagostina and T-fal, has provided ongoing support for Jumpstart year-over-year. 2018 was no exception, with the company donating $155,500 and participating in multiple vendor programs, including sponsoring the Canadian Tire Retail Corporate Golf Tournament in support of Jumpstart, and giving product for "Kitchen Fan Fridays": an internal promotion that helps raise money through corporate employee contests.

WAKEFIELD

Inspired to help kids play, Wakefield continues to find innovative and exciting ways to support Jumpstart, donating $140,000 in 2018. The automotive vendor, known for its Castrol and Super Clean brands, was a Gold Sponsor of the Canadian Tire Retail Corporate Golf Tournament in support of Jumpstart, and provided a trip to Formula 1 in Monaco as a live auction prize for the Canadian Tire Dealer Convention.

Jumpstart is grateful for the support and partnerships of all levels of government: municipal, provincial, and federal. The Government of Canada continues to be a dedicated source of encouragement and support for Jumpstart. It is through its contributions over the years that nearly 2 million children have had the opportunity to participate in sport, recreation and play.
