Introduction

The Gender Equality (GE) strategy for 2023-2027 was developed by the National Research and Development Institute for Food Bioresources – IBA Bucharest (IBA) on the basis of input from the entire research institute and takes into account everyone who works at our research institute. The GE strategy was built on provisions of the European Charter for researchers and of the Code of Conduct in the process of the recruitment of researchers¹, 2015-2019, the European Gender Equality Strategy 2020-2025² and the Horizon Europe guidance on gender equality plans³.

At European level, the GE strategy (2020-2025), adopted in March 2020, sets out the vision, policy objectives and actions aimed at contributing to the achievement of real progress in terms of gender in Europe, respectively to the achievement of sustainable development objectives.

The motivation for developing the GE strategy is to ensure that our research institute is a safe place for everyone, and all activities and processes that take place respect the principles of equality, diversity, inclusiveness and non-discrimination.

Based on the GE strategy, IBA developed the GE Plan (GEP) for 2023-2027, with concrete actions and measures, as well as indicators for measuring progress of its implementation and revisions.

Enforcing its mission and values, the GE strategy and the GEP of IBA ensure and promote equality and diversity to knowledge and the acquisition of skills to all. The objectives of the GE strategy are implemented through specific actions that aim at safeguarding an equal and inclusive organizational culture and promoting gender-equality at all levels. As such, the GE strategy and the GEP will pro-actively enable, gender equality awareness raising, skills and competences; gender balance in decision-making structures and processes, including recruitment; gender equality in research; and integrating the gender dimension in the entire research process.

I. Review of requirements, policies and case studies

Prior to developing the GE strategy and the GEP, the IBA management appointed a working group to conduct a literature review of the existing requirements, policies, recommendations, examples and case studies pertinent to discrimination, inclusiveness and gender equality, with a special focus on research performing organizations (RPOs).

II. Diagnosis (data collection and analysis)

II.1. Data collection

The following indicators were selected at IBA as relevant for the discussion on gender equality issues:

- Staff numbers by sex/gender at all levels, by domains, function (including administrative / support staff);
- Numbers of women and men in research and administrative decision-making positions (e.g., top management team, boards, committees, recruitment and promotion panels);
- Numbers of staff by sex/gender applying for/taking parental leave, for how long and how many returned after taking the leave.

As part of data collection and diagnosis, we conducted institute-wide surveys with the following indicators:

- Number of years needed for women and men to make career advancements;
- Numbers of women and men candidates applying for distinct job positions;
- Numbers of staff by sex/gender applying for/taking parental leave, for how long and how many returned after taking the leave;
- Opinions on the work-life balance in the research institute ;
- Integration of the gender dimension into research content.

- Perception of gender-based violence, including sexual harassment in the research institute;
- Perception (opinion) regarding inclusiveness and discrimination at the research institute.

II. 2. Data analysis

We conducted internal analyses of the data collected, and reviews of existing policies addressing gender equality and inclusiveness. The analyses took place in meetings and working seminars at all levels, with the gender equality function assigned for developing the GEP and including the research institute management, research staff and representatives of research institute administrative and support services. Each and all working groups included even numbers of men and women.

The conclusions of the internal analysis were communicated to the entire research institute staff – published on our website.

The General Director committed to the development and implementation of the GEP for IBA for 2023-2027.

1. Quantitative analysis of data

The analysis of numerical data illustrated that:

- There are more women than men in leadership positions at department level, despite the fact that women could be more reluctant in taking up additional administrative responsibilities because of work-life balance;
- On average, the number of women research positions, i.e., experienced researcher and early-stage researcher, is higher than the number of men;
- Employed women take significantly more maternity leave than employed men – within the institute.

2. Qualitative analysis of data

The qualitative research showed that:

- Combining work and family life – women more often declare that they are responsible for most of family duties;
- The expectation of international mobility is more difficult for women to reconcile with taking care of children and other dependents;
- Women do more housework; maternal responsibilities delay research work and discourage women from taking up administrative positions;
- Women with children do not take longer trips abroad and become less involved in the social life of the department;
- The gender dimension is not yet well integrated in research;
- The research institute is perceived as a safe place, without gender-violence;
- The research institute is overall perceived as inclusive;

- The strategies of the departments are rather unclear – departments do not communicate that they act on gender equality in any way;
- There is a noticeable lack of procedures and knowledge about the gender equality, inclusiveness and non-discrimination;

To summarize the results of the studies, it can be noted that all the situations mentioned by the respondents and situations analyzed at the institute are, to some extent, factors of discrimination or manifestations based on gender.

The important conclusions of the internal analysis at IBA are:

- We need to revisit the existing policies and procedures, to make gender relevant, and develop new ones covering all identified areas of intervention;
- We need to train and educate our staff on gender-equality;
- We need to communicate gender relevant actions and measures actively and efficiently;
- We need to develop a gender strategy and a GEP for 2023-2027, with clear actions and targets, and responsible persons.

III. GE strategy and GEP

Based on the internal review and the national and European policies and requirements, the General Director committed to developing the institute strategy for gender equality for 2023-2027, and the corresponding GEP.

IBA decided on creating the function of GE officer at the institute.

Specifically, the GE officer contribute to setting up, implement, monitor and evaluate the GEP; provide practical support and tools to the actors involved in the GEP implementation; cooperate with and engage stakeholders at all levels in order to ensure the implementation of the GEP's actions; raise awareness about the benefits of gender equality in the research institute; assess the progress towards gender equality in the institute.

The institute management mandated the GE officer at the institute and a dedicated working group to develop the GE strategy and the GEP 2023-2027. The GE working group included men and women representatives of research institute leadership and researchers, representatives of research institute administration and support services and they consulted supporting materials elaborated by UEFISCDI.

The implementation of the GEP will be permanently monitored by the GE officer at the institute. The GE officer together with the GE delegates within each department are responsible with collecting data and input. They will perform a first analysis of the progress of the GEP (against the indicators), gather knowledge and feedback.

The GE functions at the institute will conclude findings reports (once a year), which are then presented to the research institute management (GD, HoDs) and discussed. These meetings will provide valuable conclusions on the implementation of the GEP. These meetings will also provide comments and recommendations that will enable adjustments and improvements to interventions on the GEP for the following year.

The periodic reports allow the continuous review of the impact of the GEP as well as keeping the wider community informed and engaged in the progress towards gender equality. The review of progress reports includes qualitative information as well as quantitative data, such as updates on human resource data disaggregated by sex, monitoring data to keep track of the implementation of key actions.

After their conclusion and adoption by the research institute management (Board of Directors, GD, HoDs), the periodic (annual) GE progress report is published on the research institute website and communicated to the entire scientific community.
