CHI FURNITURE

Our upholstered furniture pieces are designed to allow the free-flow of chi within a room. The pieces are defined with low profiles and geometric shapes. The designs feature simply upholstered, smooth cushions in a combination of felted wool and aniline leathers. This type of leather is dyed exclusively with soluble dyes (poisonous aniline is NOT used). This dyeing process is done without covering the surface with a topcoat paint or insoluble pigments. The result is a product that retains the hide's natural surface texture. Some pieces have removable leather arm sleeves and partial slip covers. Designed by Peter Cardew.

FRAME: ash wood structure wrapped in polyurethane foam

SPRINGS: serpentine and/or elastic strapping

LEGS: stainless steel

FABRIC: 50% viscose 30% polyester 20% linen, flame retarded to meet California 117 codes

LEATHER: matte Italian aniline leather

DAILY CARE

Spilled liquids or food should be removed immediately from the surface. Small spots can be cleaned with a damp cloth. Avoid aggressive cleaning chemicals. Leather can be treated with a leather care product to retail its supple surface. Remove hairs and lint with a lint brush. Beyond simple spot cleaning, all pieces require professional cleaning. Dust or vacuum for routine maintenance. Do not place furniture on or near heat sources. Heat can make leather crack and age prematurely. Clean stainless steel legs with stainless cleaner that has been applied with a soft, clean cloth.

WARRANTIES

Structure, springs, zippers, stitching and leather are warranted for one year, under normal residential use. All cushions and foam and filling materials will soften and conform to the shape of the user and this is considered normal use, not a defect. Leather covered pieces are suitable for mild commercial use, but will not be warranted for heavy commercial usage. Warranty does not cover fading of fabrics and leathers which are susceptible under direct, unfiltered light. Warranty will not extend to any piece that is not upholstered in its original fabric or leather covering.
