NOTES

I recommend working jogless stripes so that the “seam” at the beginning of each color-change round remains virtually invisible. Work jogless stripes as follows: knit one full round of the new color. At the beginning of the second round, pick up the right leg of the stitch below the first stitch of the round (worked in the old color), and place it on the left needle. Knit both the first stitch and the picked-up stitch together. Continue the rest of the round as instructed. Repeat the jogless stripe instructions at the beginning of the second row after every color change.

Also, when you carry your yarns up, try to twist them the same way each time, so that they stay neat.
