ABOUT YOUR SKIN TYPE

Combination skin can be dry, oily, or normal either at different times or in different areas of your skin. The most common types of combination skin are normal cheeks/oily t-zone or dry cheeks/normal t zone

Your skincare products should help to balance these different areas and keep the levels of moisture in your skin maintained

We've chosen products that are formulated for combination skin types as well as using balancing and hydrating ingredients that are loved by our customers with combination skin

Feels good and smells amazing!

Tracy Lamb on May 15, 2020

This product smells amazing, really comforting and calming. The oil doesn't feel too oily so that it feels greasy, it's got a nice light texture that soaks in well but immediately makes my face feel soft and moisturised. Love it, one of the best I've used.
