Describe In Detail The Issue You Are Experiencing:

***Although you received a reference number from the manufacturer, some items may not be covered under the manufacturer's warranty and will be deemed as "customer's fault" such as when the part is supplied with high voltage (mistakenly or not), electrical spikes and lightening, insect damage and more. We have no say in the matter but if the manufacturer determines that indeed this is the case you will have a choice of either receiving your item back as is, repair it at an additional costs (if available) or buy a new replacement item. Remember, we are not in control of the process or the time it takes for the manufacturer to send back your item, we also have no way of expediting the process so please be patient - we are as eager as you are to deliver it back to you :-).
