1834: Hendrik De Cock's Return to the True Church

Chapter 2

Cover De Cock's ministry in the State Church, where he was required to reconcile Christian faith and duty. He had long hoped to escape the State Church, but his hopes were dashed when the Synod of Dort laid him and the beginnings of a return to a robust Christian Faith. By 1854 membership of the Orthodox Congregation had more than doubled, bringing that about.

Firstly, in the introduction Kamps proceeds to spell out the full significance in chapter 6.
