Mercado Global is a nonprofit with a mission to transform the lives of women. We create beautiful and thoughtfully designed accessories that not only have the ability to transform an outfit, they can empower an entire community of indigenous women.

A single thread is stronger when woven with many others. Through our not-for-profit model, we strengthen communities of women, weaving savings and loan support (income and access to equipment through microloans), education (financial literacy, business development, self-esteem and family health and nutrition), and market access into a program focused on financial independence to overcome poverty.
You; our donors, partners, retailers, and customers, are making a meaningful impact and altering the lives of rural indigenous women and their communities in Guatemala.

Your commitment and passion for our mission makes you a vital thread in the Mercado Global fabric. Together, we are empowering many communities of women: from the artisans weaving our products in Guatemala, to the leaders developing business partnerships from our Brooklyn headquarters, to the growing number of women making our accessories part of their everyday lives.

AS PARTNERS IN THIS JOURNEY, WE THANK YOU.
2016 presented profound challenges and exciting opportunities for women across the world, including our partner artisans.

Women’s rights and economic inclusion continue to be tentative, making the need for social programs that support women and their families more important than ever.

Mercado Global is affirmed in our belief that when we empower women — when we recognize that what unites us is bigger than what divides us — we have unlimited potential. Mercado Global is about the opportunity we have to lead and actively build the society we want to live in. You — our customers, donors, and retail partners — recognize this opportunity and are allowing us to truly extend our impact.

With sales up more than 60% over last year fueled in large part by partnerships with retailers such as Anthropologie, Nordstrom, and Target, we have embarked on an exciting three-year scaling campaign to reach $1.5 million in annual sales, train and partner with 800 women, and triple the income earned by our partner artisans. This progress will make a meaningful difference not just in these women’s lives, but in the livelihood of their communities.

Every day we see the impact on families when a woman has access to her own income (often for the first time) and can provide not only a healthy living, but also build a safety net for her entire family. With Mercado’s growth in sales and donor contributions, over the next three years, we can continue to transform communities — breaking the cycle of poverty for future generations.

To our customers, retail partners, and donors — we thank you for recognizing the potential of women, the potential of our model, and the potential that lies within yourselves to be be catalysts for global change.

In thanks and partnership,
The Power of Women

We believe an economically empowered woman can break the cycle of poverty. When women reach their full potential, they help those around them do the same.

On average, women invest 90 percent of their wages back into their families and are more likely to send their daughters to school, improve their families’ health, and become catalysts for positive and enduring change in their communities.

We are creating change by empowering the women who wear our products and the women who weave them.
OUR MODEL
At Mercado Global, we believe in a holistic approach to poverty alleviation.

COMMUNITY-BASED EDUCATION
Artisans enhance their leadership and business skills through trainings conducted in local indigenous languages.

MARKET ACCESS
Indigenous artisans highly skilled in ancient Mayan weaving techniques face very limited sales opportunities. We connect women to international sales opportunities with major retailers and provide technical trainings for women to improve their weaving and sewing skills.

ASSET DEVELOPMENT
Artisans receive microloans for sewing machines and looms that enable them to expand their income. They also receive incentives to save a portion of their earnings, allowing them to cover long-term costs like children’s education and emergency healthcare.

With Mercado Global’s holistic approach, women are breaking the cycle of extreme poverty and becoming entrepreneurs in their own right.
Our Community-Based Education program provides trainings and workshops in local languages that complement income generation.

Women expand their knowledge in four key areas:

- Business Development and Entrepreneurship
- Health
- Leadership
- Financial Management

This continued learning, paired with income-earning opportunities, enable women to become confident leaders, in charge of family health, finances, and education.
Gloria Lilian Elizabeth Xiquin Sosa is a respected leader in her community of Santa Maria. As a result of nutrition trainings provided by Mercado Global, the health of her entire family has drastically improved, especially that of her son, Roni.

Guatemala has the fifth-highest rate of malnutrition in the world, due to a lack of education and income to afford nutritious foods. With little access to education on nutrition, Gloria’s son contracted several malnutrition-related illnesses. Through information gained from Mercado Global nutrition trainings, Gloria nursed Roni back to health.

Roni is now a thriving, happy boy. Gloria hopes that through these trainings, more women in her cooperative can lead healthier lives.
The women we partner with are incredibly talented weavers and sewers, whose main barrier between a life of poverty and unlimited possibilities is access to a market.

We design collections for international retailers while using traditional local weaving techniques, providing:

- DESIGN
- SUPPORT
- SHIPPING & EXPORTATION
- MARKETING

As a result, Mercado Global artisans can earn up to three times the daily rural Guatemalan income.

This year, we were thrilled to grow sales of our artisan-made products more than 60%.

We have a space where we know our rights, our value, and can support each other.

Mercado Global has given me the opportunity to be independent, and to truly appreciate the power and value of being a woman. My daughter sees this, and is able to become a strong leader amongst her friends and in her school as well.

I have worked with Mercado Global for over 12 years. My partnership with Mercado Global has given me the skills to weave new products so that I am able to provide an education for my daughter. In Guatemala, there is a lot of machismo, and men get jealous when women succeed. It’s not men who are stronger than women, but it’s that we are equal. With Mercado Global, we have a space where we know our rights, our value, and can support each other.
Our asset development program pairs microloans with education and incentives to encourage savings. Artisans receive low-interest microloans to purchase a sewing machine or loom, only making loan payments when they have orders through Mercado Global. Through financial literacy classes, women are taught the value of long-term financial planning and receive incentives for deposits made in a personal savings account.

Marta Julia Cojitín, a partner artisan for 5 years, loves her role as a sample maker in creating beautiful Mercado Global products. It was her ability to learn quickly and success in this role that convinced her to participate in the microloan program. With income earned from her machine, she has more money to support her three children.

Her daughter, Dulce Flor de María, already knows that she wants to be a teacher.

Marta Julía hopes that with the income she earns with Mercado Global, she can make her daughter’s dream a reality.
The Greater Impact Foundation enables those at the bottom of the pyramid to achieve self-sufficiency in a sustainable, environmentally viable and scalable manner.

The mission revolves around the belief that providing a “hands up” versus a “hand out” approach to the marketplace is empowering.

We are excited to have the Greater Impact Foundation as our leading sponsor for our three-year scaling campaign to provide market access and skills training to 800 artisans.

PIMCO FOUNDATION

The PIMCO Foundation’s mission is to empower people globally to reach their full potential. Over our four-year partnership, the foundation has supported key initiatives focused on financial literacy, business development, and more recently, our three-year scaling plan.

We were proud to celebrate International Women’s Day on March 8th this year by joining the WomenForward coalition, a group of twelve PIMCO Foundation grantees with the common goal of empowering girls and women.

GREATER IMPACT FOUNDATION

The Greater Impact Foundation enables those at the bottom of the pyramid to achieve self-sufficiency in a sustainable, environmentally viable and scalable manner.

The mission revolves around the belief that providing a “hands up” versus a “hand out” approach to the marketplace is empowering.

We are excited to have the Greater Impact Foundation as our leading sponsor for our three-year scaling campaign to provide market access and skills training to 800 artisans.
We’re proud to partner with retailers around the world who value the craft of weaving and potential of women artisans. Together, we are helping customers make a “passion statement” with their purchase and mainstreaming artisan-made goods.

Each year, supporters in New York City and the Bay Area come together to celebrate our work to empower women and raise funds that make our programs possible.

EVENTS

FASHION FORWARD
October 19th, New York City

On October 19th, over 250 supporters moved Fashion Forward at our annual gala at the Bowery Hotel, where we honored Style and Beauty Expert and GLAM4GOOD Founder, Mary Alice Stephenson. PIMCO and Exec|Comm sponsored the evening, where guests enjoyed music by DJ Donna D’Cruz, an inspiring program, and gourmet treats at our after-party. Together, we raised $145,000 to support our programs in Guatemala.

FIESTA! AN EVENING TO EMPOWER WOMEN
May 5th, Portola Valley

On May 5th, members of our Bay Area community came together in support of our partner artisans and raised $150,000 to support our scaling plans. Guests enjoyed live salsa music, dancing, Latin-inspired food, and a silent auction. The evening was made possible by the generous support of PIMCO, AeroMexico, Square, and local sponsors Kerwin and Associates Real Estate, Turner Horn Real Estate, Tuscan Travel Group, Cielito Lindo Mexican Street Kitchen, and Roaming Hunger.
In April, exclusive dip-dye bags were sold in Target stores across the United States in partnership with artisan marketplace Accompany. The bags were part of a limited edition line of artisan-made and fair-trade goods from around the globe.

Through this partnership, 8,024 hours of labor were generated for our artisans, allowing them to provide nutritious food for their families and pay for school fees.
IMPACT AND FUTURE

We believe all women deserve the opportunity to determine their own futures.

That’s why we’re launching a three-year scaling campaign to reach 800 women artisans by 2020.

With sales up more than 60 percent this year, we are in a position to significantly scale our impact. We plan to raise $1.8 million over the next three years to bring our model to more women in Guatemala.

Campaign goals

Build our Market Access program to reach $1.5 million in annual sales.

Triple the income we provide to both current and new artisans through this sales growth.

Reach a total of 800 artisans over a three-year period.
FINDINGS FROM OUR LATEST SOCIAL IMPACT ASSESSMENT

82% of Mercado Global artisans surveyed attribute reduction of poverty to Mercado Global’s work in their communities.

93% of Mercado Global artisans perceive positive changes in their lives since joining Mercado Global programs —ranging from boosted self-esteem, improved health, to providing extra income for their families.

70% of Mercado Global artisans have their own bank account, in comparison with 13% of control artisans.

80% of Mercado Global artisans share information learned from Mercado Global trainings with members of their community.
