One of the most iconic buildings in Miami Beach is the Fontainebleau, which reminds the designer of the Lapidus Wall Sconce, Sasha Bikoff, of the heyday of Frank Sinatra and the famed Rat Pack. An homage to Morris Lapidus who designed the building in the 1950s, the white sconce mimics the shape of the arches and the cheese-hole pattern ornamenting the resort. The sconce is made of wrought iron in a sugar white finish. We offer the Lapidus in a number of designs.
