

CARE INSTRUCTIONS

Please wear all jewelry with care. A good practice is to put pieces on just before leaving the house, and remove them when you get home. Ideally, fine jewelry should be the last thing on, first thing off. Avoid showering, bathing, or swimming while wearing.

Cleaning: we like to use a soft toothbrush, warm water, and gentle, chemical-free dish soap to clean rings. Air dry in a safe place.

Avoid exposing jewelry to perfume, lotions, oils, and household cleaners or products that might damage gold or gemstones.

Regularly inspect your jewelry for loose stones, missing prongs, and any damage caused by wear. You'll want to address any needed repairs to avoid lost stones or further damage.

Even the hardest stones, like diamond, can suffer damage if you're not careful. Also, compared to necklaces and earrings, rings are particularly susceptible to chips and abrasions. Keep in mind gems vary in hardness. Diamond and sapphire are the hardest. Moonstones, opals, pearls, and others aren't as hard, and require extra attention and care to ensure many years of wear, beauty, and appreciation.
