Early Grammar Literature Books

These reading guides contain one or two pages of comprehension worksheets for each book.

There are seven kinds of questions requiring matching, picking from multiple choices, filling in the blank, drawing a picture, listing, vocabulary definitions, and essay-type answers.

The student will need to be taught how to answer the essay-type questions with a complete sentence. For example, if the question says, “Who was going to take Little Bear fishing tomorrow?” The answer should be, “Father Bear was going to take Little Bear fishing tomorrow.”

Sentences - Students need to learn to restate the question in their answers.

Mechanics - The answer must be a complete sentence starting with a capital letter and ending with an end mark.

Spelling - Every word in the answer must be spelled accurately. Most of the words that need to be spelled correctly will be on the worksheet or in the appropriate book.

A grading label is located on every worksheet below the student’s name. / /

Reading - The student is given a reading grade for having the correct comprehension answer. If a book has 5 questions they are worth 20 points each; 10 questions would be worth 10 points each.

English - The student is given an English grade. There are 3 possible points for each essay-type answer: 1) making a complete sentence, 2) starting with a capital letter, and 3) ending with an end mark. Start with 100 points possible and deduct from there.

Spelling - The student is given a spelling grade by starting with a perfect score of 100 and deducting one or two points for each misspelled word.

An answer key is provided in the back of this booklet to assist with the grading process. The make-up of the sentence does not have to be exact, but the key elements need to be present for a correct answer.
