COLONIAL LADIES: LOVELY, LIVELY AND LAMENTABLY LOOSE
by Judith Dunn

Female Factory at Parramatta (Granville Historical Society)

This talk is about the women convicted of crimes committed in the colony of New South Wales who were incarcerated in the Female Factory or Convict Women's Gaol at Parramatta. Far from the weaker sex, meek and depressed, they were feisty, street wise and a bit lippy! Their ways were often their survival techniques.

Judith Dunn OAM is a prominent Sydney historian with a particular interest in the Parramatta district, about which she has written numerous well-received publications.
