THE EIKON

THE EIKON

Made by Schneider Enlightment in Germany, the Eikon lighting range consists of a turned wooden head of FSC-certified ash, oak or bamboo and a metal shade that is attached simply with the help of magnets. The lampshades and the textile cables are available in different colors. Due to the removable, interchangeable lampshade, the lamp can be installed in all kinds of rooms and living areas. The modular and flexible system can therefore help to rearrange a room again and again, according to taste and requirements.

With only a small grip the lampshade can be changed and another color or shape can be installed to the wooden fixture. For bigger spaces, like salesrooms and hotels, the lamp offers a high degree of flexibility as different colours and shapes can simply be exchanged and combined.

THE DESIGNERS

Niklas Jessen is a trained carpenter and architect. During his studies he became fascinated with interior design. In 2010 he founded the company Schneid and has been developing interior furniture and lighting since then.

Julia Mülling studied literature but was also passionate about photography, illustration and design. This affinity for the visual arts and design wouldn't let go of her and she brought her feeling for form and distinct comprehension of aesthetics to Schneid in 2012. She has been defining and developing forms and concepts at Schneid ever since.
