BEAUTY

FALL FOR ONE

September is a good time to give your skincare an overhaul. We're enjoying Summer Fridays' new Soft Reset AHA Exfoliating Solution, £49, a night-time lotion that refines skin texture, and U Beauty's Resurfacing Compound, £138, a serum-lotion that melts into a toner-like consistency. Amp up your cleansing routine with Sisley's Triple-Oil Balm Make-up Remover & Cleanser, £88. Lastly, the jewel in Estée Lauder's skincare crown has had an update. Advanced Night Repair, £82, now has Chronolux power signal technology – a new discovery in epigenetics that further enhances ANR's power to repair skin by supporting the natural process that produces new cells and collagen. Plus, the iconic brown bottle is now made from recycled glass. Classics reimaged.

NEW-GEN FOUNDATION

Becca's new hi-tech Zero No Pigment Virtual Foundation, £29, looks nothing like a traditional foundation. It uses clear "light blur technology", which has a water-encapsulated powder to diffuse light, so it's softer on imperfections and gives natural coverage. It's made of 80 per cent water and feels cool on application, but leaves skin with a matt finish. Futuristic beauty at its finest.

BEAUTY MUSING

Lash rehab

With the new-season focus on thick, luxurious lashes comes the return of lash-boosting serums. First up is one of the originals, RapidLash Eyelash Enhancing Serum, £40. The impressive formula promises to strengthen natural lashes, making them look up to 75 per cent more voluminous and 50 per cent longer in less than eight weeks (or sooner, in my experience). Meanwhile, Lancôme's new Cils Booster Lash Revitalizing Serum, £35, uses four amino acids naturally present in eyelashes to restore their health and length. Apply twice a day for quick results.
