

VINTAGE COLLECTION

CHARACTERISTICS:

Vintage mixes an old-fashioned aesthetic with modern tanning techniques. This interpretation of antique leather has a sheen applied to its topcoat. These European hides are lightly buffed and then finished with wax to create an authentic old-fashioned look. A pure aniline leather free of top coats, the individual characteristics of each individual hide are meant to be visible.

CARE & CLEANING:

Leather is a luxurious, durable material that will maintain its beauty for many years with proper care. Aniline leathers are tanned and dyed without added finishes or protection and develop a beautiful patina with use.

Vintage should be dusted regularly with a soft cloth or vacuumed with a soft bristle attachment. Remove spilled liquids by dabbing with a clean cloth (do not rub). For difficult stains, it is always best to contact a specialist as damage may occur due to improper cleaning.

For optimum performance and longevity, do not place your leather furniture within twelve inches of a heating source or in sustained direct sunlight.

A NOTE ON ANILINE LEATHERS:

Full aniline leathers display all of the natural beauty of the hide, including neck wrinkles, stretch marks, spines, insect bites, and scars. As with stained natural hardwoods, leather shows shading variation in and between hides. These characteristics are part of the leather's beauty and are not considered defects.
