

WESTERN COLLECTION

CHARACTERISTICS:

With its natural and rugged look, this leather has the feel of the Wild West. Produced by using a heat-reactive light paraffin wax and then dry-milled to create color and texture variations throughout the hides, Western is designed to look worn and distressed. Well-protected against fading and staining, this leather can stand up to virtually any type of use.

CARE & CLEANING:

Semi-aniline leathers are simple to maintain. Dust regularly or vacuum with a soft bristle attachment.

Spilled liquids should be removed immediately by dabbing with a cloth (do not rub). If additional cleaning is required, apply soapy water with a damp cloth and then rinse by wiping down with clear water. Do not use commercial cleaning agents. For difficult stains, it is always best to contact a specialist as damage may occur due to improper cleaning.

For optimum performance and longevity, do not place your leather furniture within twelve inches of a heating source or in sustained direct sunlight.

A NOTE ON SEMI-ANILINE LEATHERS:

Semi-aniline leather is ideal for contract and residential use, as it is washable with soap and water, extra free of defects, and expertly selected for maximum yield.
