A new theological paradigm: Vatican II and taking responsibility before the world and history	6
The Church-world relationship and Vatican II’s “anthropological turn”	10
Looking at history with the eyes of faith: “Discerning the signs of the times”	14
The People of God: Exercising evangelical discernment through the faithful’s sense of the faith	17

- 2. After the Council, Two Approaches to Social Questions Emerge 23
- John XXIII and Paul VI: The Church immersed in the “human” history of salvation 24
- John Paul II: The truth of salvation illuminates human history 28
- Benedict XVI: The Word of God unveils social evils 34
- Francis: The revival of the conciliar perspective of Gaudium et Spes 38
- 3. Criteria for Discernment: Reading the “Signs of the Times” 43
- First criterion: Faith that discerns “lifestyles” 45
- Second criterion: The common good prevails over the logic of private interest 48
- Third criterion: The realism of effective charity 51
- Fourth criterion: The preferential option for the poor 53
- Fifth criterion: Care for creation 57

Part II

Siblings All and Social Friendship: A “Sign of the Times”

- 4. Reflecting on the Problems, Analyzing the Causes 67
- Siblings all as a “sign of the times” 68
- Two general objections 72
- The shadows of a closed world: Three variables for reading the present time 76
- The need for a common project 81
- Anthropological reductionism and human rights:
The dignity of the person as the frontier of the future 85

5. Scrutinizing the Present: Letting the Word of God Enlighten Us	89
A parable for everyone: The Word of God transcends every border 90
A parable of “perception”: Converting how we look and see 92
A stranger on the road: Stimulated to abandon disengagement 94
Retreating “together” from the logic of the violent: Economy and solidarity 96
6. Generating an Open World: Discerning and Judging	99
The dynamism of grace: The love of Christ that unites us to the neighbor 100
Extending the meaning of “being siblings”: Making the rights of the person and of peoples truly universal 103
A “basic acknowledgment”: The inalienable right to integral human development 106
A heart open to the whole world: Immigration as an opportunity for enrichment and interchange 109
7. Building a Better and More Open World	113
“Good politics”: Striving for the high ideals of social ethics 114
Charity as the “soul” of politics: Acting on the global level 119
Dialogue and social friendship: Approaching the other with respect in order to seek the truth together 123
Pathways toward a new encounter: Builders and artisans of peace 129
Two “false answers”: War and the death penalty 137

8. The Church and Religions Serving the Universal Call to Be Siblings	147
