ROGUE INDUSTRIES

Sustainable Leather Goods, Made Well.

Here at Rogue, business is not just business — it's the power to change the world. We feel good about the way we run our company, because we know we're making the world a better place for our customers, our employees, and our fellow global citizens.

To start with, our offices and workshop are powered by renewable solar, which provides over 100% of our energy needs. We source the most sustainable leathers we can find — free range American bison from the American West, Canadian moose that are responsibly harvested, Icelandic salmon leather that sets the bar for what is possible with environmentally responsible leather tanning. On top of that, our leather goods are designed to be used for as long as possible. We want you to get years out of your purchase from Rogue.

For our globally sourced projects, our international partners are selected on the basis of their commitment to environmental practices, fair labor standards and fair wages. Rogue's partners overseas are audited by the leading monitor of social performance in global supply chains (Amfori BSCI) and have received top scores across the board.

Finally, we support causes that we care a whole lot about. Whether it's the local land trust in our backyard here in Standish (The Presumpscot Regional Land Trust) or doctors treating kids in conflict zones overseas (Medicins Sans Frontiers), we support nonprofits that are doing excellent work all over the world.

So your new wallet from Rogue isn't just a wallet — it's also a force for good. Thanks for supporting us on this journey, as we reimagine the possibilities for a small leather goods company like ours.
