QUICK FACTS

- Colombia is the world's third largest coffee producing country, producing more than 810,000 metric tons in 2018.
- Carlos Imbachi won the SCAA Roasters' Guild Coffee of the Year competition in both 2009 and 2010.
- Kaldi's relationship with the Imbachi family began on an origin trip in 2009. We purchased his coffee for the first time in 2015 and have featured it every year since.

Coffee production in Colombia is facing a crisis of age. With the average coffee producer being 53 years old in the country, fewer young farmers are taking up the mantles of the previous generation to continue the legacy of Colombia's growing specialty coffee industry.

For the last several years, we've built a friendship with Carlos Imbachi, a respected producer in Colombia's Huila Department. Carlos is nearing retirement, but his legacy will carry on thanks to the next generation. His children are committed to continuing the family business of producing some of Colombia's best coffee.

Three of his children -- Sonia, Diego, and Ever -- have already purchased their own small plots from Carlos' Finca Buenavista, where they now grow their own unique coffees. This year, we want to honor the Imbachi family legacy by featuring coffee from each of Carlos' children. We've combined our favorite lots from Sonia, Diego, and Ever into one stunning coffee that reminds us of a refreshing piña colada.
