The King of Coconuts. Go nuts for King Coco!

This is not just another coconut water, King Coco is in a league of its own. It is made from mature, eight month old organic orange King Coconuts native to Sri Lanka which are grown purely for the delicious water they contain. Most other coconut waters come from unripe green coconuts which are harvested when they are just 3 – 4 months old and this is done to prevent more of the water turning into coconut flesh as it grows. Unfortunately this also means that the husk is not mature enough to use and there is very little flesh to harvest which does not make this a very sustainable or productive use of these coconuts.

This maturity gives Clearspring King Coco water a smooth, mild slightly sweet flavour without acidity and each bottle contains the liquid of at least one coconut.

- Not from concentrate
- Source of potassium: Potassium contributes to normal muscle function
- Fat Free
- Fully recyclable packaging: green glass to protect the liquid from light damage

Perfect for drinking after sport, while travelling, the morning after a late night or on a hot day when you are dehydrated. Refresh yourself and drink it straight out of the bottle chilled or at room temperature alternatively add it to your smoothie. So don't forget to put it in your gym bag, travel bag or back pack: 'enjoy the great taste of good food'.

RRP: £2.39 for 350ml

Other organic coconut products available from Clearspring include coconut oil (200g & 400g) and coconut milk.
