Fall/Winter 2014 Bag Collection

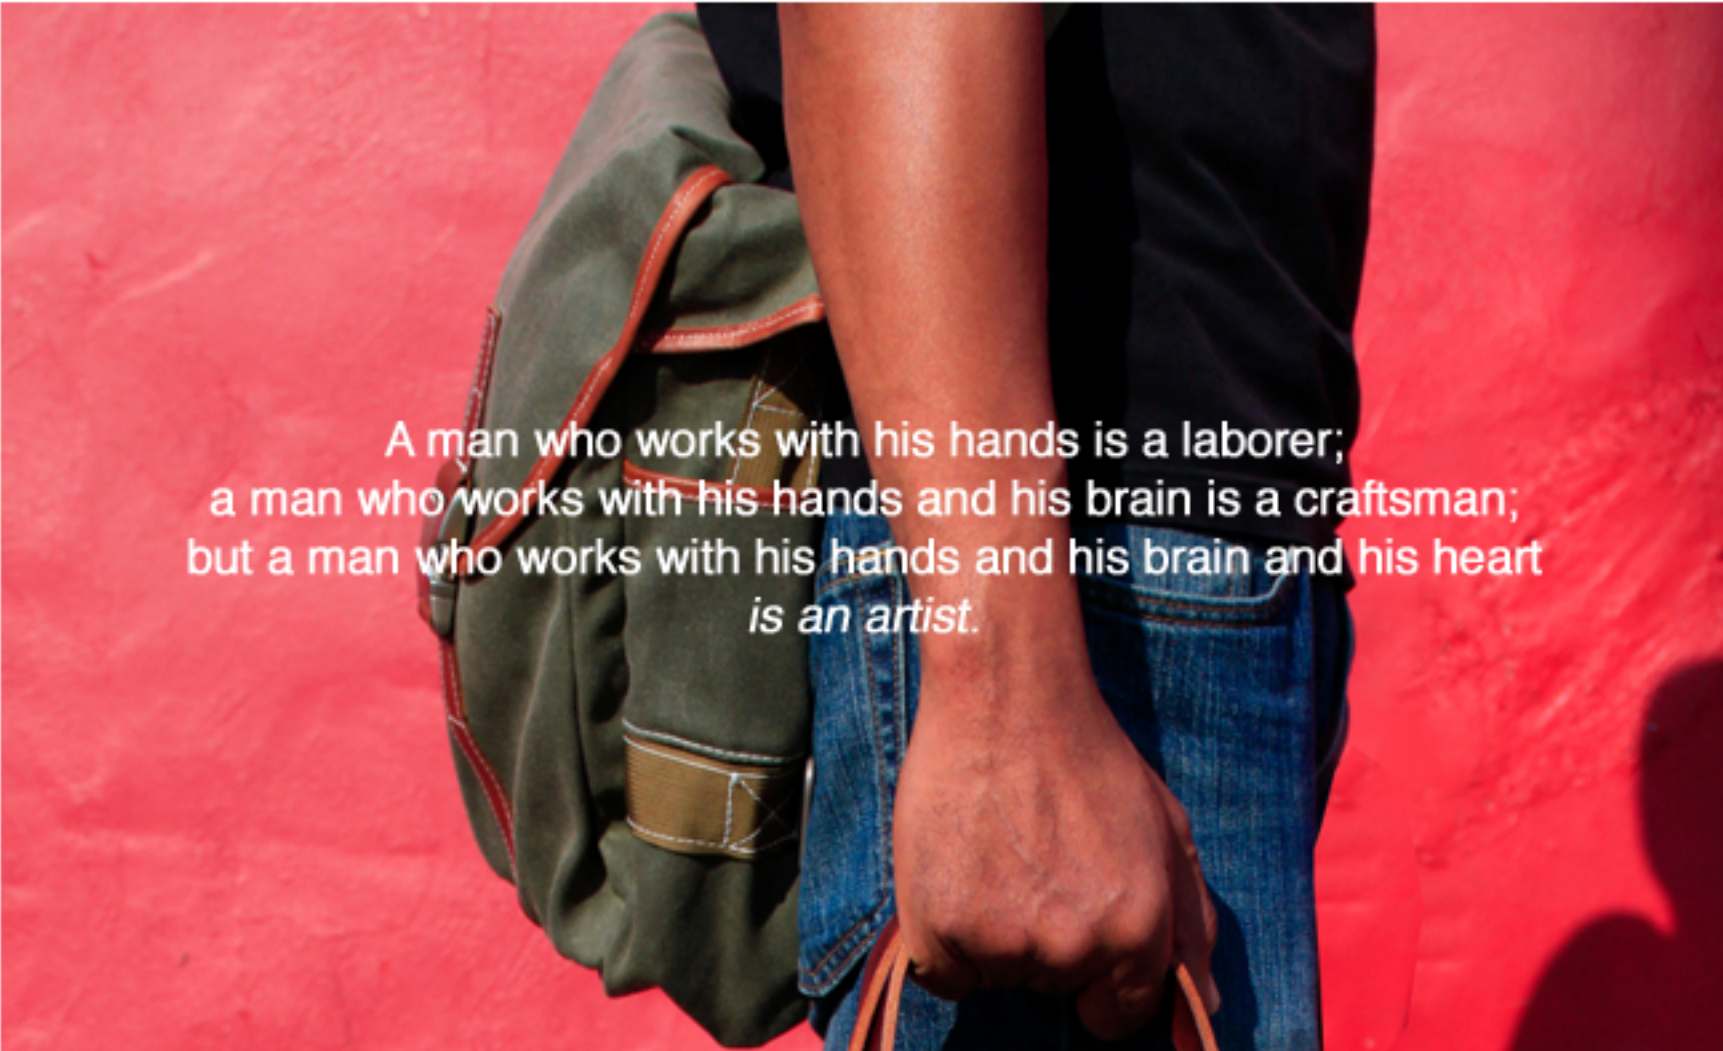

“To my mind, the greatest reward and luxury of travel is to be able to experience everyday things as if for the first time, to be in a position in which almost nothing is so familiar it is taken for granted.”

— Bill Bryson

A man who works with his hands is a laborer;
a man who works with his hands and his brain is a craftsman;
but a man who works with his hands and his brain and his heart is an artist.

Bag of choice:

Waxed Canvas and Leather Saddle Messenger Bag

As a nurse working in home care, a good bag is a must. The bag must accommodate nursing supplies I travel with from home to home, such as: stethoscope, blood pressure cuff, thermometer, wound care supplies; as well as smaller necessities like pens and hand sanitizer. Easy organization, accessibility to my supplies, and durability are what I need in a work bag.

For my photography, I need a low profile bag that leaves me unencumbered to easily to organize and accommodate my camera(s), lenses, and film. This bag does that for me, and I can transition between work and shooting with ease.

Bag of choice:

Waxed Canvas and Leather London Duffel Bag

The bag I had, the London duffel, made for optimum convenience! Instead of using multiple bags for work and modeling, the bag was spacious enough to hold everything I needed. It made traveling so much easier.

Bag of choice: Waxed Canvas and Leather North to South Messenger Bag

My time with this bag was ideal. I was able to pack a lot of items for work tightly, and it had a very low profile, much less than a regular back pack. The construction of the bag is incredibly durable, which is great for multiple trips in unpredictable weather.

When I'm not at work, sourcing for collages is my passion. The bag holds my folders and papers securely. This bag became a fast favorite of mine.
