

IS YOUR MINI MOBILE COMPLIANT?

Since the inception of the new Health and Safety at Work Act, stricter safety rules are now being enforced on work sites throughout New Zealand.

Although no regulations have changed, the penalties for failing to take all reasonable steps to avoid injury have increased and the responsibility for this falls on staff members as well as management. This has resulted in larger commercial operators increasing their site safety requirements when working at height.

These rules and guidelines may differ from site to site, but here is a guideline of some of the requirements that are increasingly being asked for from workers using our Mini Mobile Towers.
