If you've noticed that they just don't make things like they used to, you're not alone. Perhaps you've discovered that your kitchen knives barely seem to hold an edge? Maybe you've had to deal with broken plastic pieces that rendered a product useless? Do you wonder just what kind of wood something is made out of? If this or similar questions have you feeling blue, you're not alone. It's time to face the music: We're stuck in a disposable era.

That's where we come in and that's what makes us different from other companies you could choose to do business with. We stand behind each and every product we sell. We maintain very close relationships with all of our suppliers, and even have our own people, well versed in quality control, sourcing the best materials and inspecting production runs. You're definitely in good hands.

That's why we don't dropship items. We warehouse everything ourselves. Each order is processed by a Raw Rutes Employee. The bottom line is: If you're someone who appreciates quality & top notch customer service and you like buying something once, we're your guys and girls. We won't let you down.

TOFU PRESSING PRODUCTS

For those who have mastered the arts of vegetarianism and veganism, we're proud to introduce the Sumo Edition of our new Tofu Warrior Presses! Each decorative hole is masterfully cut to create a harmonious pattern, and give your tofu pressing some serious zen!

Functionally identical to his Cousin the Tofu Ninja, the Sumo is a step up in style. Use him just like you would use any tofu press, but be warned: The Sumo has an ego and he is ready to push the water out of any tofu block that comes his way!

If bland cuisine has you down, let our Tofu Ninja Press save the day! Use the Ninja to remove the water from a full block of grocery store sized tofu* in one pressing! Simply place the tofu in the press, apply the weight (weighing in at a hefty 4.5 pounds) and let Ninja do the work for you. In as a little as 15 minutes, the press removes up to 35% of the tofu's total weight in water! By removing water, the tofu is made into a blank canvas for you to create some serious flavor stories!

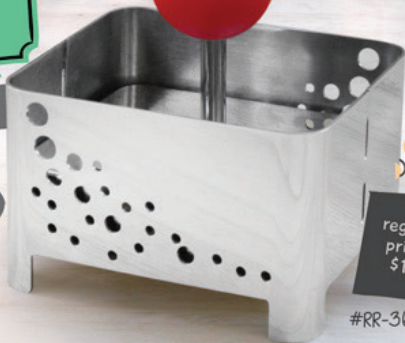

The Tofu Ninja Press is great for pressing moisture from canned vegetables, and even making some kinds of cheeses.

TOFU PRESS ACCESSORIES

POWDERED CALCIUM SULFATE

(GYPSUM)

A naturally occurring mineral also known as gypsum. Yes, gypsum. It's the chalky stuff used in the making of ceramics. But you're going to be using a very pure, food grade version of this mineral in tiny quantities. Brewers use it, food producers use it, and you can use it too without any worries. It makes the soymilk start to solidify, so that you can press it into a block. It actually adds calcium too. Did we mention that it is also the most popular coagulant used in the store bought versions? That's right. You're going to be making tofu like a pro.

HOME TOFU PURPOSES

UNBLEACHED CHEESE CLOTH

This unbleached, natural cheesecloth is the perfect liner for your tofu press. The thread count is right in the middle of the cheesecloth spectrum at grade 50. You may or may not want to double it up, depending on your needs. Compost the leftover cloth after you use it, or gently wash it by hand between uses to make it last a long time. Speaking of washing, we suggest giving it a gentle rinse before use.

FERMENTING CROCKS

Centuries before the potato reached Europe, in an age of Kings and Queens, Lords and Ladies the noble Turnip was a staple crop in many Eastern European countries! It's popularity continues today, through a variety of traditional recipes (and a few new ones!).

Turnip Grater

One thing is for sure: If you're a lover of root vegetables, you're going to love this grater!

This hardwood turnip grater is the perfect way to grate turnips (and rutabagas), beets, daikon radishes and even a few other foods like apples and cheeses into perfect shreds. Whether you boil, ferment or pickle those little morsels is up to you!

& SHREDDERS

Caldwells Starter Culture

Traditional fermentation takes time, for the acidity to bring the food to a stable and edible condition. Caldwell's vegetable starter culture contains the correct bacteria strains in ideal proportions and can speed-up fermentation in as little as 7 days with crispy results. This product ensures consistent and delicious fermented food projects.
